MEXICO'S SPLIT ROCKS BRITAIN

DUCE SLASHES BACK AT U. S. IN UNITY TALK

Dictator Nations Will Band Together If Democracies Threaten War, He Says.

SPEECH HITS WOODRING

Assails Remarks From 'Across The Ocean' In Condemnation Of Anti-Fascist Bias.

(By Associated Press)

GENOA, Italy—Premier Benito Mussolini, hitting back at what Italy regards as anti-Fascist bias in the United States, declared today that the totalitarian states would "become a bloc and march together to the end" if threatened with a "doctrinal war by the so-called democracies."

Il Duce's thinly-clad but unmistakeable thrusts at "speeches from across the ocean" reflected the Italian government's growing irritation over remarks made recently by Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring of the United States, and various other American acts.

Warns of War Danger.

(Woodring, in a speech May 5, warned dictator-controlled nations that democratic countries might some day get enough of their provocations and resort to war.)

Other things regarded as entering into the Italian attitude were statements by Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, a congressional move to have Italy named among violators of the Kellog-Briand pact and the state department's failure to recognize the sovereignty of Ethiopia.

The Ethiopian matter has for several months blocked conclusion of a new commercial agreement between the United States and Italy.

Il Duce, who arrived here this morning aboard the battleship Di Cavour, said in a speech devoted to international affairs that Italy wants peace

"But," he asserted, "we must be ready with all our forces to defend it, especially when we hear speeches—even if from across the ocean—on which we must reflect.

Would Join Forces.

"It perhaps is to be excluded (from consideration) that the so-called great democracies are preparing for a doctrinal war. However, it is well to know that in such a case the totalitarian states would immediately become a bloc and would march together to the end."

Mussolini expressed misgivings over the eventual success to be expected from negotiations which have been started between Italy and France looking to settlement of some of the problems responsible for ill feeling.

TACKLE BUDGET

City Officials Start Figuring 1939 Cost Estimates.

City department heads, facing a July 15 deadline for filing the budget with the county budget commission, today sharpened their pencils and rolled up their sleeves as they tackled the job of preparing estimates on the amounts they will need for 1939 operations.

Requests for submission of estimate needs for next year's expenses was sent out to heads of departments yesterday by Mayor Claude M. Hunter, with instructions that the estimates must be kept within the appropriations set up for this year.

City Auditor Paul Kelley said the city budget must be certified to the county budget commission with council's approval, no later than July 20.

9 RURAL SCHOOL HEADS TO STAY

Lucas Superintendent Only One Not Candidate For Reappointment.

Nine of the 10 superintendents of Richland county rural schools either had been re-employed today or were virtually assured of a contract for another year, according to Boyd Robinson, county superintendent.

Supt. C. W. Handley, who has been at Lucas for 16 years and has the longest service record of any school head in the county, will not be an applicant for the post again, he said today.

Nearly 50 applications have been received for the vacancy, but the Monroe township board of education recently eliminated all but four of them. Date for hiring a successor to Handley had not been set today. Handley declined to discuss his plans for the future.

Olan LaRue, who came to the Madison township schools last year under a one-year contract, recently was re-hired for two years.

Another newcomer last year, Willard Weekley at Butler, has not been re-employed, but it was indicated today that he was in line for re-appointment.

Others who will continue under present contracts or are almost certain prospects for re-appointment are:

R. M. Garrison at Bellville, R. R. Wendland at Adario, E. J. Joseph at Shiloh, W. A. Wickline at Lexington, E. L. Bailey at Plymouth, L. C. Stingel at Springfield township, and V. B. Moffett at Union Rural school.

DUFFY WARNS STATE WORKERS

Points to Penalty for Civil Service Political Activities.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— State civil service employes were told today by Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy that any political activities on their part—excepting "voting and expressing opinions"—were violations of the civil service law for which they could be "penalized."

The statement, he said, was authorized by the special grand jury which is investigating charges that classified employes have been asked to contribute to the Democratic campaign fund.

NAZIS PROTEST

Berlin Angered By Arrest of 6 Germans In Rio.

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP)—The German government today protested to Brazil against the arrest of six German citizens as suspects in the abortive Fascist uprising Wednesday against President Getulio Vargas.

The Brazilian government, however, assured the German embassy that there was no indication they were agents of any foreign power or organization.

COUNCIL FAILS TO CONSIDER UTILITY OFFER

Company's Proposal Including 'Sandbag' Plan Discussed Only Informally.

SOLONS SILENT ON PLANS

Second, Third Readings To Be Given Measure At Special Session In 2 Weeks.

With the Ohio Fuel Gas company's "sandbag" proposition laid before them only informally by the utilities committee chairman, Russell D. Porch, city council last night gave a first reading to a new gas ordinance that would continue the present rates, which expire tomorrow, for a period of three years.

Without a single word of comment and with eight members present, council heard the ordinance submitted by Porch. The absent member was Fourth Ward Councilman Lester D. Hunter, member of the utilities committee.

2 More Readings Needed.

Second and third readings of the measure are scheduled for special meetings, probably within the next two weeks, before council will vote on the measure in the routine manner.

If approved by council, the ordinance will then be submitted to the gas company. The company will have 30 days in which to either accept or reject the measure. Should it decide on the latter course, it must appeal to the state utilities commission before the expiration of that period.

The present rate would remain in effect, however, while the company would be called upon to prove that the rate was not high enough to provide sufficient return on its investment. The city would be required to prove that the rate was sufficient.

Hear of Latest Offer.

Council members before the meeting last night were told individually by Porch of the latest proposition made by the gas company in which the utility proposes to renew the present rate of 65 cents per thousand to the 5,000-

2 BILLS READY

Davey Relief Measures Head For Assembly's Hopper.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Although it was expected they would run into opposition in the anti-Davey senate, two administration relief bills today were ready for the hopper when the special relief session of the general assembly opens Monday afternoon.

The administration bills will augment four measures drafted by the city administrations of Cleveland and Toledo, and there was said to be some opposition in the upper house to these bills.

The opposition probably will come from Sens. Harold Nichols, (D) Clermont, and Horace W. Baggott, (D) Montgomery, who were said to be preparing new relief legislation.

Ondov, Improving, to Take Next Haircut Sitting Up

Michael Ondov, divinity student who has been confined to General hospital since last Nov. 5, was looking forward today to his next haircut with considerable anticipation, because for the first time in more than six months he can have it sitting up.

Slowly recovering from paralysis brought on by an auto accident near here, Ondov has been forced by his condition to lie on his stomach for his haircuts, but from now on he'll be able to "take 'em like a man."

Surgeon Well Pleased.

The Wittenberg graduate was visited yesterday afternoon by the Columbus surgeon who performed a delicate operation on his spine early in March. It was the second time the specialist has seen Ondov since the operation, and he pronounced him much improved.

Ondov can now move his right leg from all angles while his left one is beginning to show muscle responses. Tomorrow his Mansfield physician will make a spinal puncture to test the course of the fluid.

Ondov's operation and treatment at General hospital has been made possible by contributions from Lutheran churches, Wittenberg students, individuals, and groups Tomorrow St. Luke's Lutheran church will take up a contribution for the paralyzed student who hopes to resume his study for the ministry.

Rev. Herman Gilbert, treasurer of the Ondov fund, said that $1,875 had been raised to date. Ondov will have to remain in the hospital for a number of months yet.

STEEL INSPECTOR KILLED

MASSILLON — (AP) — John Walsh, 25, inspector for Republic Steel Corp. was killed today when the auto he was driving left the road and hit a telephone pole.

ACCUSED AGAIN

Loudonville Bandit Suspect To Face Ashland Court.

Frank Willard, 24-year-old bandit suspect, who was captured in Loudonville May 5 following a midnight gun battle which state patrolmen, will be arraigned in Ashland Monday on two charges filed by State Highway Patrolman L. D. Alexander.

The affidavits issued by Ashland County Prosecutor A. Ross Silverling, yesterday charge shooting with intent to kill and the operation of a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Willard is being held under $10,000 bond in Wooster. Arraigned in the mayor's court there yesterday, he pleaded innocent to highway robbery and was bound over to the Wayne county grand jury. He was removed from the Mansfield city jail to Wooster Tuesday night.

Willard was captured by State Patrolmen Alexander and Charles B. Tieben in Loudonville less than two hours after he was accused of robbing a Wooster tavern of $12.

FOUR ESTATES NAMED IN TEST SUIT ON TAXES

Taxpayer Seeks Accounting of Personal Property, Amount Paid In Assessments.

COVERS 1926-30 PERIOD

Frank Black Estate, Rigby, Harry Black And Preston Estate Defendants.

Owners and executors of four extensive Mansfield estates had been made defendants today in test cases of the law governing personal property taxes in suits filed in common pleas court for Michael Hallabrin, 100 Gibson avenue, by his attorney, Joseph A. Bayer.

The suits seek an accounting of personal property held by the defendants, an accounting of personal taxes paid on the estates between 1926 and 1930, and to enjoin the owners and administrators from disposing of or transferring any of their personal property.

Names Administrators.

One suit names Mrs. Jessie Black, widow of the late Frank B. Black, and his three sons, Robert B., Roger A., and Donald S. Black, as administrators of the Black estate.

Other actions are against J. A. Rigby, president of the Citizens National Bank and Trust company; Harry S. Black, president of the Farmers Savings and Trust company; and the Citizens National Bank and Trust company as administrator of the estate of the late Burton Preston.

Also named in the suit against the Preston estate are Burton R. Preston, Burton Preston III, a minor, and Kathleen Preston, a minor, heirs of the Preston estate.

Charges Returns Incomplete.

The petition in the action against the Black estate administrators asserts that the late Frank B. Black "failed to include in the personal tax returns made by him certain taxable property, tangible and intangible, required by the law then in force."

In the other cases, the actions state that the defendants escaped payment of certain personal taxes during the four-year period by virtue of obtaining immunity certificates from the state tax commission under a law then in existence.

The law permitting the immunity, it was understood, was later declared unconstitutional, and the suits seek to collect taxes which otherwise would have been payable had it not existed.

The petitions assert further that Hallabrin, as a taxpayer, requested County Prosecutor G. E. Marriott to institute action against the defendants but that he refused to file the suits.

Marriott said today he had conferred with County Treasurer John E Kolb and was told there were no irregularities in the listing

BABY FILM TO GET COURT TEST

Movie Distributor Says "We'll Fight To Finish."

CINCINNATI—(AP)—A ruling by City Manager C. O. Sherrill that the film, "The Birth of a Baby," could not be shown here unless the actual birth scenes were deleted headed for a test today.

William Skirball of Cleveland, president of the firm distributing the film (Special Pictures Corp.), telephoned last night that "we will not permit one inch of the film to be changed."

Announcing that he would confer here with Sherrill today, Skirball added, "we will fight this matter through to a showdown in Cincinnati."

Boycotts New Deal

"Our company won't spend another cent in the United States as long as the New Deal runs things," James F. Lincoln, president of the Lincoln Electric company of Cleveland is quoted as saying in an interview on his return from a four-month world tour. Lincoln, a member of the Republican program committee, added, "If I were a young man starting out in life, I'd leave this country and start in Australia." He said his company would continue spending money in other countries because they did not "deliberately discourage business."

CITY READY FOR AIR MAIL WEEK

Observance Opening Sunday Will Be Climaxed By First Flight Here Thursday.

All was in readiness today as Mansfield prepared to join the nation in the observance of National Air Mail Week which officially opens tomorrow and will be climaxed on Thursday with the first air mail flight from the city.

The cachet is two inches square and is headed by the words, "National Air Mail Week, May 15-21, 1938." It has a facsimile of the old blockhouse that stands in South park with sketches on either side of apple trees symbolic of the early orchards planted in Richland county by Johnny Appleseed. An airplane is in the center. Below are the words, "John-

'SPENDERS' LEAD

Beat Down Senate Opposition To Recovery Measure.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Senate passage of the administration's $3,179,435 spend-land "recovery" bill substantially in the form it was passed by a top-heavy house majority was foreshadowed by a survey of sentiment today.

The "spenders" appeared to be in complete control, although a band of conservative Democrats and Republicans was trying to rally opposition to the PWA "pump-priming" features of the measure.

Provisions for $65,000,000 for the Public Works administration, and earmarking of $500,000,000 for a PWA revolving fund, were the major targets of attack.

There was scant opposition to the proposed allotment of $1,250,000,000 to carry on WPA work during the seven months beginning July 1.

CLEAR WEATHER DUE TOMORROW

Forecast Calls For Rain To Continue Tonight; Mercury At 53.

Mansfield's May "cold wave" was definitely on the way out today, but it left thundershowers in its wake.

Rain is due to continue tonight, but the skies will clear Sunday, the forecast said. Little change in temperature was predicted.

The mercury was at 53 degrees at noon today, but the average for the past 24 hours was still nine degrees below normal. The low last night was 41 degrees

SLAM ON DEBT DELINQUENCY STINGS LONDON

Mexican President Orders Diplomatic Relations With John Bull Severed.

ANGRY REPLY EXPECTED

Note Saying Even Powerful Nations Don't Pay Debts Arouses Storm.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Staid Whitehall, seat of the British government, was rocked today by the "sensational action" of President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico in severing diplomatic relations with Great Britain.

News of this surprise climax to the heated controversy between Mexico City and London brought British officials scurrying bright and early to the solemn foreign office from their week-end haunts.

Cause of the rift was the prolonged argument between Mexico City and London over expropriation of British oil properties in Mexico and also a recent British note demanding immediate payment of debts owed this country by Mexico.

London Surprised.

Authorities here frankly admitted Mexico's step had come as a complete surprise to them—so much so that when the first newspaper reports were received in London early this morning they were received with what can only be called polite incredulity.

But this quizzical eyebrow-lifting quickly turned to hot anger when extracts from Cardenas' forceful note terminating diplomatic relations became known to officials.

The Mexican taunt that "even powerful nations cannot boast that they all pay their debts" particularly rankled in the minds of the irked officials.

The more they thought about it, the more British officials were irritated by this remark, which they regarded unquestionably as a reference to Britain's debt to the United States.

It is safe to say that the Mexican "wise crack" has stung the British more severely than any other diplomatic retort to London by a foreign power in recent years.

Draws Different Picture.

It was learned, however, that for official purposes the British will take the attitude that London's failure to pay her debt to the United States in no way applies to the Mexican situation, since there is no comparison between private and governmental debts.

Touched on a "sore spot," it was regarded as certain that Britain

Garner, Farley Join In Move To Block West Job

Whatever chances Charles West, former Ohio congressman, had of being appointed comptroller of the currency have apparently been successfully blocked by Vice President John N. Garner, Postmaster General James A. Farley and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, United Press dispatches to The News-Journal from Washington said today.

Capital advices quoted President Roosevelt, who reportedly had the currency post in mind for West, who resigned as under-secretary of the interior yesterday, as saying he was uncertain what post would be given West.

Morgenthau announced two days ago that he had not recommended West for the currency post, which pays $15,000 a year. Garner and Farley did not publicly announce their opposition but were reported nevertheless to have massed their influence against the move.

Farley and Garner were reported to favor appointment of Marshall Diggs of Texas to the post. Diggs was assistant to J. F. T. O'Connor, California, who resigned. The post has been vacant since O'Connor left to seek the governorship of California.

Captive Balloon Enlisted in Traffic War

(By Associated Press)

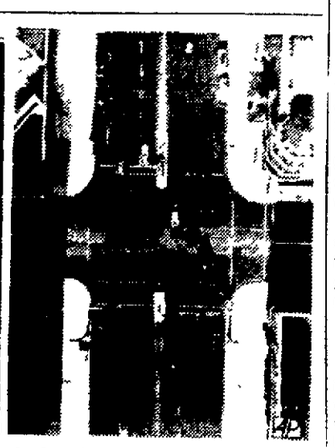
MILWAUKEE — Warring on traffic accidents, this city is using a captive balloon to make an accurate camera study of conditions in the vehicle-congested streets.

Carl V. Bergstrom, traffic engineer in the Milwaukee department of public works, believes that actual photographs of street intersections are made more quickly and cheaply than scale drawings. The pictures are used as a record of traffic lanes, lights and safety islands.

The balloon is placed about 300 feet over the intersection by use of a guy rope. Plates in the camera are exposed by remote control, with a push button on a battery circuit. The bag is hydrogen-filled at present; Bergstrom plans to substitute helium.

1. Traffic Engineer Bergstrom attaches his camera to a 12-foot balloon before sending it up to photograph Milwaukee traffic.

2. Here is the balloon in action. The man holding the guy rope guides it over the area to be photographed.



3. And here is picture made from the balloon at 300 feet. It shows an intersection with traffic lanes and safety islands.

ROOM FOR EVERYTHING

An antique wood bookcase on rollers is one of Sally Eiler's most prized possessions. It is built in step design and has plenty of room for books, magazines, ash trays and cigarets and is particularly handy, according to the moving picture star, just because it can be moved anywhere with very little effort.

Mr. Neill showed color movies taken at the nursery which illustrated the growth and development of the orchid. He also showed a number of potted orchid plants to the members.

The speaker explained nursery growth, showed the details of raising orchid plants from the seed to the bloom, explained the cutting and shipping of the flowers and gave many other points including the fact that it takes eight years for one of these plants to fully mature.

Mrs. J. T. Lusignan presented a short paper on the garden calendar for the month of May.

Six guests from the Mansfield Garden club were present for the meeting. Business was conducted and committee reports were submitted after the talk.

Luncheon was served by the hostess at a flower-decorated table which was presided over by Mrs. Henry Huston. Now that Phil La Follette has launched a third party, it is being suggested in some quarters that we should have a safe and sane Fourth.

Some western college boys were punished for dropping ice nickels into a pay telephone—but real money seems to melt away just about as fast.

Public School Needs Presented.

ANNOUNCEMENT of a comprehensive plan to erect two new junior high school buildings and modernize old elementary public school buildings in Mansfield does not come as a surprise.

Twelve years have passed since first occupancy of the new Senior high school building, and even that far back the old high school (now the John Simpson Junior high) was recognized as an obsolete structure, unfit for use as a present-day school building.

The same has been true, for years, of a number of the city's ancient elementary school buildings and the fact that a number of classrooms in these buildings are of non-fireproof construction should not be passed over lightly.

Mansfield is fortunate in having a board of education in which there has been apparent justification for public confidence. Recommendations of the board members and school officials as to best methods of financing improvement of public school property may be expected to carry weight with the people of this city.

Recognize Likes and Dislikes.

MAKING a strong bid for summer tourist business, Michigan is apparently overlooking no opportunities to make a favorable impression on visitors.

For instance, the state department of public instruction has just prepared a course of twelve lessons for high school students looking toward employment as waitresses and maids in summer resort hotels.

The instruction starts with basic principles of personality and appearance that have been found to create a favorable impression among patrons.

Here are a few of the precepts included in the lessons: "Make-up—Be discreet; Jewelry—Avoid a gaudy type; Hair—Watch loose ends; Teeth—Keep clean and white; Nails—Avoid bright polish; Footwear—Low-heeled shoes for poise; Food—Eat slowly, relax, adjust diet to fit; Uniform—No wrinkles; First Aid—Know what to do in an emergency; Perfume—Do not use it."

Commenting on the innovation, the Detroit News says: "When the schools have graduates enough to staff all the resort hotels, Michigan may become a state to which fond mothers will send their vacationing daughters that they may learn the proprieties of dress and deportment by observing the waitresses."

People Demand Tax Relief.

A WAVE of public demand is rolling up for tax revision. Especially strong is the demand for repeal or at least complete modification of those two "job-killing" taxes—the undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax.

This tax correction is overwhelmingly approved by the nation's business leaders, economists, publicists and newspapers. The opponents of this relief are those who are apparently oblivious of the influence of unsound, punitive taxation on industrial development and employment. They stubbornly seek the retention of these taxes which have been so largely responsible for the present slump in business.

Every person in this country has a stake in this fight. Every person will be affected by its outcome. Public servants who are courageous enough to fight for tax reform, are doing so in the interest of jobs, spending and stimulated business. They deserve the whole-hearted thanks of a tax-oppressed people.

For Those Who Covet Wealth.

ADD to list of incidents tending to show that temporary large income is more of a detriment than an advantage—

Jackie Coogan's experience in trying to get some of the money he earned as a child actor—rather than being able to support himself as a married man:

Maurice Costello, former matinee idol, suing his daughter for $200 a month to support him—instead of having put away some money while he was able to earn it:

May Yohe, once a musical comedy favorite, being glad for the dole she is receiving as a WPA worker—which enables her to support her third husband:

Richard Whitney, once powerful financier, serving a prison term for misappropriation of funds.

Observation indicates that it is not how much money you make, but how you use it, that counts.

Everyone Should Know 'Rights.'

A READER writes to the editor of the New York Times. "It seems to me that no more powerful weapon for the protection of civil liberties could be forged than a universal understanding and recognition of what these rights are."

To that end she proposes that one day a year be devoted to commemorating the "Bill of Rights," with fitting exercises and honors. She suggests September 25, because the first ten amendments to the United States Constitution were approved by the senate on September 25, 1789.

It is probably true that the safety of our democracy and civil liberties lies in greater understanding of them on the part of all citizens alike, great or humble, rich or poor. Too often, however, "special days" are hardly noted except by the committees in charge of their observance. Bill of Rights day could not achieve its purpose if it were not used chiefly as the beginning of a general educational movement.

The Bill of Rights should be effectively taught in civics courses. Their background in history should be dramatically presented to students of American history. They should be read and re-read. And, most important of all, public officials and private citizens should give them more than lip service.

Don't borrow trouble—the interest is too high.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—One thing the country can look forward to, come good times, is the prospect indicated in treasury figures that federal taxes will take seven to ten per cent of the national income instead of the five or six per cent taken out in 1929.

President Roosevelt once estimated that future federal budgets would stay fairly close to the $7,000,000,000 level, although they have been going above that in recent years. He forecast that, barring the unforeseen, the national income also would climb to $80,000,000,000 in a year or two and ultimately to something around $100,000,000,000. At present the level is around $60,000,000,000.

Moreover, in the years before the crash the five or six per cent of federal taxes piled up enough to knock the public debt down nearly a billion a year between 1919 and 1929, reducing it all told from a top of about $26,000,000,000 when the war ended to $16,000,000,000 when prosperity ended.

* * *

Now for Comparisons.

THESE are box-car figures, bewildering when taken in the mass, but less so when broken down.

Note these for comparison between what was, is and may be:

In 1929—National income $80,000,000,000, tax $4,000,000,000, or five per cent of national income.

1932—National income $39,500,000,000, tax $2,000,000,000, or five per cent of national income.

1936—National income $64,000,000,000, tax $4,100,000,000, or 6.4 per cent of national income.

1938—National income estimated about $60,000,000,000, tax $6,000,000,000, or 10 per cent of national income.

Immediate future estimated by President—National income $80,000,000,000, tax $7,000,000,000, or 8 75 per cent of national income.

Later future—National income $100,000,000,000, tax $7,000,000,000—or more if the debt is to be cut down rapidly—or 7 per cent, or or more, of national income.

Not since 1930 has the national debt been cut down.

For 1938 estimated expenditures are about $8,000,000,000 which is 13 per cent of the estimated national income. No debt retirement is included.

* * *

Remember the Budget?

ALREADY tax levels have been hiked well over the levels prevailing in the prosperous '20's. In the years 1926 to 1929 the surtax ranged upward to about 20 per cent. At present the top surtax bracket is 75 per cent. Corporation taxes in those years averaged around 12 per cent and now average about 16 per cent, treasury sources estimate.

The administration's outlook is that without greatly increasing the rate of taxation enough money will come in from rising national income—when it begins to rise—to accomplish the double purpose of balancing the regular budget and leaving enough over to begin cutting down the $38,000,000,000 debt.

As the national income rises, the president forecasts that the present outgo for relief and recovery will shrink a billion or so annually as the tax income rises a billion or so annually.

That, in a nutshell or two, is the present picture.

Timely Editorial

Protection Against Criminals.

The administration has belatedly intervened to tide the federal bureau of investigation of the next fiscal year. The President has sent to Congress a request for an emergency appropriation of $108,000, which would end enforced "furloughs" affecting approximately one-half of the 600 G-men.

This assistance is amply justified Daniel W. Bell, acting budget director, has explained that the financial situation of the FBI was due to extraordinary expenses caused by major kidnaping cases This indicates the value of the agency's work to the American people, but the truth is that both the budget bureau and Congress have denied the FBI needed funds.

To hamstring the FBI with inadequate support would be the worst sort of economy. It would be saving a mere pittance of thousands in an era of billion-dollar outlays. Crime never sleeps, and there is no prospect that the arch-criminals would take a "furlough" just because the G-men were doing so. Fair support of the FBI is an investment in national security

How It Started

Washing Dirty Linen."

It may or may not be the brain-child of Voltaire, who if he did not give it life, imparted to it momentum and standing.

The incident is said to have occurred almost in the exact middle of the Eighteenth Century, when General Manstein wrote to Voltaire, asking to be vindicated publicly of the accusations made against him.

Voltaire happened to be occupied answering the appeal of Frederick of Prussia to help him straighten out one of his dilemmas. So, he replied to Manstein.

"The King (Frederick) has sent me some of his dirty linen to wash; I will wash yours another time."

The metaphor has been preserved for posterity in a letter Voltaire wrote to his niece July 24, 1752, in which he commented:

WORDS OF THE WISE

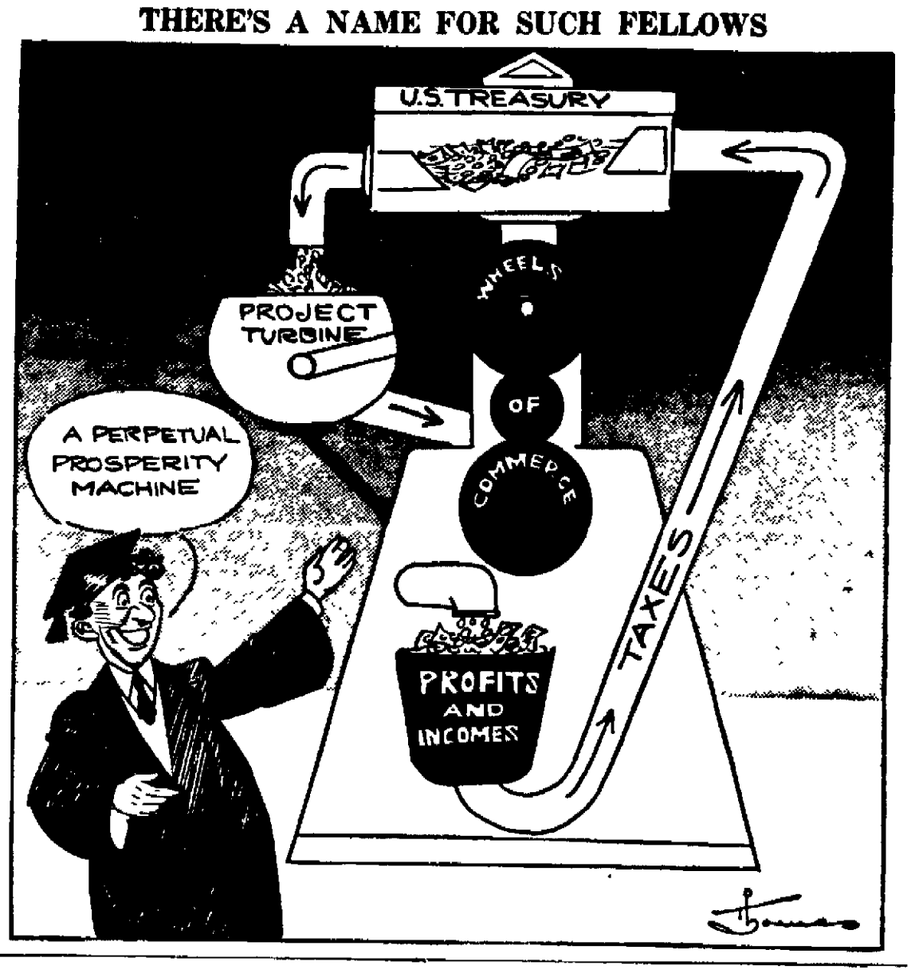
THERE'S A NAME FOR SUCH FELLOWS



Black's Inferiority Not Questioned

—By RAYMOND CLAPPER

WASHINGTON—There's a good deal of sub-rosa excitement around here about derogatory reflections which some justices of the supreme court are supposed to have made upon the judicial competency of their frequently dissenting colleague, Hugo Black. These aspersions upon Justice Black's ability as a craftsman in the law, frankly attributed to his associates on the supreme court and bearing strong evidence of authenticity, have just appeared in an article by Marquis Childs in Harper's Magazine.

The article has created an inside stir because it is unheard of that members of the supreme court, the brethren, should contribute to publicly branding one of their number as an inferior legal workman That isn't cricket in any profession. In politics they call it smearing I don't know what you call it in a case like this The supreme court doesn't have a name for it. In the past the court has gone to great pains to cover up for lazy or slow-moving justices.

* * *

I HAVE inquired directly of several members of the supreme court as to the accuracy of the reflections upon Justice Black's ability and in no case has anyone dissented or offered one word in Justice Black's defense, even privately. From these conversations and from the internal evidence in the article itself, I have no doubt in my own mind that the essential material which reflects upon Justice Black came from within the court itself Some of the brethren seem entirely satisfied with the article, as one might infer from the mutual chuckles over it between Justice McReynolds and Silas Strawn, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, as they sat together at dinner the other night. Not that McReynolds is suspected of having inspired the article—it contains a sideswipe at him for messing up the Maritime law.

* * *

THE author of the article, who is a well-known and highly reputable Washington correspondent, states that he speaks "authoritatively" and proceeds to report that Black's conduct on the bench has caused his colleagues, both liberal and conservative justices, "acute discomfort and embarrassment" because of a "lack of legal knowledge and experience, deficiencies in background and training that have led him into blunders which have shocked his colleagues on the highest court."

Inasmuch as most of the supreme court's cases concern intricate points of law, craftsmanship is of the utmost importance

"It is precisely here that Justice Black, in the opinion of his colleagues, has failed," author Childs reports "He has been unable to carry his share of the heavy burden of work that falls on the court nor do his fellow-justices, or most of them, foresee that he will be able to carry it within any measureable time"

Furthermore—and this obviously could not come from anyone except a justice on the court—"Several opinions he (Black) has written have been rephrased by other members of the court and they have been subsequently released with something less than satisfaction."

* * *

THESE are the statements, which when called to the attention of several members of the court failed to evoke the slightest expression of regret or a word of any kind in defense of Brother Black, although one member of the court did dispute the accuracy of an incidental statement in the article which had nothing to do with Black.

* * *

ONE member of the court, denying he had any connection with the Black article, suggested that sometimes indiscreet remarks are dropped and given circulation. There are two kinds of indiscretions in Washington. Some are accidental. Some are accidental on purpose.

When he was appointed, Mr. Justice Black thought he got a raw deal from the newspapers. Brother, that was just a mild initiation. Now you are being worked on by experts.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This correspondent knows a man who has stolen thousands of pounds of sugar in recent years. He takes it from restaurants, scooping up handsful of the little paper-covered squares and cramming them into his pockets. He goes from restaurant to restaurant, filling his pockets. His method is to sit down and fend off the waiters by telling them he is waiting for somebody. Then he puts on his hat and departs, with his pockets laden.

Once he is safely at home, he removes the wrappers and packs the sugar carefully in little white boxes. Each box holds a pound. Then he sells it to waterfront cafes and hamburger stands of the cheaper variety. Averages $18 to $25 a week, he says, which is all gravy. Sugar gravy.

* * *

PROBABLY the wierdest trial on record was that of the chef who was being sued, along with a hotel, by a grieved customer who ate chicken a la king and got a bone in his throat. It caused him extreme anguish and cost him a sizable doctor's fee, he declared.

"You must describe to his honor how the dish was served," pointed out a lawyer. Whereupon the man told of having been served by a beautiful blond waitress. However, five minutes later the case was thrown out of court because it was proved that the hotel in question used waiters—that is, males, there being no waitresses, or females (as the records state), employed in that hostelry's dining room.

The chef was grateful. As he prepared to depart, the judge beckoned to him. "Listen," confessed the judge. "I became so hungry listening to that description of that chicken a la king that I'm going home and ask my wife to prepare some, and I would be grateful if you will tell me the recipe."

* * *

SPEAKING of New York vignettes. I was in a cafe the other morning about 2, having some milk toast . . . At the tables were perhaps a dozen men and women, talking, having a little refreshment.

Suddenly I discovered a lady reclining on the table As I gazed at her she raised her head and moaned: "Oh, me, I ought to go home, but I can't go home . . . I simply can't let the doorman at our apartment building see me in this condition" . . . And she lowered her head on the table again and dropped off to sleep. She may be there yet for all I know.

The restaurant is a rendezvous for stay-up newspapermen . . . Its walls are a labyrinth of weird murals drawn by well known comic strip artists and illustrators . . . Practically every inch of wall space is taken up with these caricatures . . . Its owner is Italian, but careful not to talk politics too freely, especially in the presence of patrons whose political leanings are unknown to him . . . However, the other night he broke down . . . It was just a wee moan, but he knew he was in the presence of friends . . . The talk had turned to the Spanish civil war, and suddenly he wailed, "Why, oh, why don't those guys give up." That's the only partisan speech I have ever heard him make.

What's Happened?

A Week-End Summary of Current Events.

SPEAKING — as many people were — of the New Deal $3,054,425,000 spending-and-lending bill submitted to the House of Representatives this week:

Democratic Representative Woodrum said: "It's the best relief bill we've ever had. Whether it's a shot in the arm, a slap on the back or a kick in the pants, if it starts things going, it's worth the cost."

Republican Representative Taber protested, however: It's not a relief bill at all, but one for the construction of enormous projects . . . intended to keep the people fooled until after the next election."

And both opinions were widely echoed.

4,315,000 Jobs Foreseen.

THE bill would give WPA $1,250,000,000 to care for 2,800,000 persons between July 1 and next February, and PWA $965,000,000 for 7,000 or more projects expected to require 1,000,000 workers between now and July, 1940.

Millions of dollars for other agencies were included, too, and sponsors calculated that, all told, 4,315,000 jobs would be privided.

This marked a departure from the system of letting the President distribute the dough among the agencies as he pleased. But it left him the right to okay or veto work relief and public works projects.

"Earmarking of the funds with reference to individual projects," the appropriations committee said, "would bog down the program."

'Exploded Theory.'

REPUBLICANS were far from satisfied. They denounced the whole scheme as "another New Deal raid on the treasury . . . based upon the exploded theory that a nation may spend its way to recovery."

And three G. O. P. appropriations committee members drew up another program for recovery. Theirs called for a congressional investigation of WPA local-federal bi-partisan relief administration, labor law revision, social security tax reduction, repeal of the undistributed profits tax, and other drastic changes in New Deal measures

What this country needs now, Republican Representative Short opined, "is relief from relief."

But, Democratic Representative Maverick interjected, "violent criticism of the President," won't help.

Other Issues.

TIME out was taken during this spending-and-lending debate in the house to approve conference committee reports on:

(1) The $1,000,000,000 naval expansion bill, which then went to the senate for final action.

(2) The $5,000,000,000 tax revision bill, designed to ease some of the levies that irk business men, which then went to the White House.

The senate, meanwhile, worked on legislation intended to spur development of the American merchant marine—and differences between the senate and house on that measure had to be ironed out.

And both senators and representatives were thinking about quitting time (adjourning, they call it.) But—

Wages and Hours.

THE house is scheduled to take a crack at wage-and-hour legislation yet this month, 218 members having petitioned for consideration of it.

The bill before the house, however, is quite different from the one passed by the senate:

The house plan provides for a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour that would be increased gradually to 40 cents, and a maximum week of 44 hours, that would be cut gradually to 40 hours

The senate plan would authorize a board to fix a maximum work week of 40 or more hours and a minimum wage of not more than 40 cents an hour at once.

And these differences will have to be removed by conferees, if the house does pass its bill, before a wage-and-hour law can be sent to the President.

Politics

Democrats' 'Inferno'.

Pennsylvania's primary comes next Tuesday. President Roosevelt recently told a reporter who asked him about it to read Dante's "Inferno."

A grand jury was to have begun an investigation last Wednesday of charges of bribery and coercion that have enlivened the Democratic contest, but the state supreme court ordered the probe postponed until next Wednesday.

CIO is backing Lt. Gov. Thomas Kennedy for the Democratic nomination for governor. He is running against Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer, backed by AFL and Charles J. Margiotti, who was attorney general until dismissed recently by Gov. George H. Earle.

Earle is seeking the Democratic senatorial nomination (on the same slate with Jones) and Philadelphia's Mayor S. Davis Wilson is running for it (on the Kennedy slate.)

In the Republican primary, Sen. James J. Davis is seeking renomination, and ex-Gov. Gifford Pinchot wants the gubernatorial nomination.

Oregon's primary comes next Friday. The main bout there is between Gov. Charles H. Martin, who promises to "develop Oregon by freeing union members from leeches, and blood-sucking vampires," and Henry L. Hess, who is backed by CIO, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Business

F. D. R. & Utilities

Fourteen big public utility holding companies undertook this week to arrange conferences with SEC on steps to comply with New Deal restrictions. And Washington officials hoped this meant the warfare between the government and the utilities would end soon.

The President, meanwhile, was studying the way power lines link cities together. He and his advisers were wondering what aerial raiders could do to America's power systems in a war, and steps to reduce the risk of disruptions of service were being considered.

* * *

Processing Tax?

A U. S. forecast that the '38 winter wheat crop would be the second largest in history caused talk this week of drastic reductions in acreage allotments for the '39 crop. "Enactment of a processing tax will be necessary," declared Kansas's Republican Representative Hope.

Cleveland Relief Load.

Cleveland, struggling under the greatest relief load in its history, will seek more money from a special session of the legislature opening Monday.

Labor

Sit-Down Case.

In February, 1937, a sheriff improvised a battle tower to rout sit-downers from a North Chicago plant. The men's refusal to evacuate resulted later in fines and jail sentences for 39 CIO unionists.

The Illinois appellate court this week upheld those sentences, declaring: "Congress did not by its enactment of the Wagner act deprive the states of their police power to protect property rights."

* * *

Circuit Court Cases.

When the Supreme Court ruled recently on the way government agencies should do things, NLRB announced it would start over again in several important cases, including those in which it had issued orders against the Ford Motor Co., Inland Steel Co., Republic Steel Co., and Douglas Aircraft Co.

The question of enforcement of such orders already had been raised in U. S circuit courts at Covington, Ky., Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco.

And this week there was much argument about whether NLRB could withdraw its records. A Ford lawyer, for instance, said NLRB was trying to "avoid investigation of the manner in which it arrived at its decisions:" and an NLRB lawyer (in the Inland Steel case) said NLRB was trying to "avoid any possibility" that the courts would rule "on technicalities instead of merits."

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

YESTERDAY I bought from a hardware store, the garden seeds I needed to plant our spacious garden. I had fifteen packages of various kinds: sweetcorn, pumpkins, peas, beans, cucumbers, muskmelons, onions, big sunflowers, celery roots. . . .

As I stood by the counter, making my purchase, I was filled with joy, as I saw each kind of seed weighed out. I knew the very spot of ground each little bag would occupy, and could almost feel the rich mellow soil waiting for the gift I held in store.

Others, mostly women, were standing by me, buying smaller and fewer weights of seed. I saw in two faces only that sweet and happy urge of planting, the joy that filled their very being with hope and faith. These two were animated. I felt their lilt of spirit in the deep, unsullied love for growing things, and it seemed to me the store which sold these miracles of growth was a pleasant spot to be.

I took the large bag filled with many little bundles and held it close. It was filled with precious things, and I marveled at its latent power. Here were plantings to be made in a little open field, amid the sunshine and balmy breezes of a fine May day. Here these seeds would fall upon the soft warm soil and fill its lap with luscious, tempting things to eat.

In fancy I can see this garden grown, blooming and blushing as it is greeted by the early July and August sun. (Of course, in fancy, there is no blight, no insect pests, no weeds to ravage.) And in these lovely quiet morning hours, I too shall greet the early morning, and with an eager hand harvest the crop that I so lately sowed, and haul it to market—happy, if with this gleaning, I can bear to the city this rustic treasure, with morning dew and bloom still clinging to it.

MILLERSBURG—At a special election May 12 in the Ripley Rural School district, a tax levy was voted on to raise $14,000 to retire bonds of the district issued for the purpose of construction an addition to the Big Prairie high school. The tax is in excess of the 10-mill limitation at a rate not to exceed 77 hundredths for a maximum period of 14 years.

The school district had passed at a regular election a $16,000 bond issue, which made it eligible for $14,500 in PWA funds which has already been received and spent. The bid accepted for the necessary construction of the addition was $50,000 and the special bond is to pay the difference between estimated expense and actual expense. Had the amount of $50,000 been decided on before the PWA grant was made the grant could have been increased, it was said.

The improvement of the school building includes an enlarged auditorium-gymnasium, a vocational agricultural department, a home economic department, and the building of two additional class rooms.

FIGHT FOR ROSS' WELTER TITLE MAY BE SET BACK

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK—(INS)—The somewhat unconventional, not to say flamboyant, match between Featherweight Champion Henry Armstrong, Los Angeles, and Welterweight Champion Barney Ross, of Chicago, for the latter's title may not go on for the night of May 26, as scheduled. It may be put back, not one month, but perhaps as much as two; as far back as possible, in fact, behind the Schmeling-Louis million-dollar meeting for the heavyweight championship in late June.

This was the sum and sense of certain well defined reports that were attaining no slight prominence today in the purlieux of our pugilistic set.

One version has it that, 12 days out from the orginal date, Ross finds that he needs more time to reach the top of his condition. Another says that the continued cold weather has put the chill on the ticket sale. And a third insists that the promoters are belatedly realizing that their "timing" is off with the May 26 date, a version that is not without some degree of valid substance.

Schmeling, for instance, came into town a week ago and, since then, he's been like DiMaggio on one of his good days. Anyhow, they can't seem to get him out. Meantime, he's hitting the headlines and the Ross-Armstrong fight hasn't been able to muscle its way in among the market reports. Meantime, too, it has been contending for recognition with the $100,000 horse race between Seabiscuit and War Admiral, which is down for a decision at Belmont park on May 30.

The horse race crowd is not necessarily a boxing crowd and, in fact, the reverse often enough has proved to be the case. But nowadays any dollar that finds its way into one box office is probably permanently lost to another.

* * *

Sets Up Own Competition.

HOWEVER, an even more disconcerting feature, they say, is that Promoter Jacobs has unwittingly set up in competition with himself; that the mugs are buying Schmeling and Louis seven weeks in advance at $30 a pew and paying almost no heed to anything else at half the money. If this is true, the man's course would seem to be clear. There is, in fact, nothing for him to do but get out of the way with everything else and let the mugs pay twice as much, while waiting three times as long for their action.

In the circumstances, boxing men around here are beginning to insist, the promoters are likely to "take a petition" on Ross and Armstrong. Maybe they won't of course. But, according to best available advices, they might.

Lose Game After Going Into Ninth With Two-Run Lead On White Sox.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—The Cleveland Indians today had slammed the door in the face of opportunity and blundered away a chance to regain first place in the tight American league race.

The Indians booted away a glorious opportunity to take over the lead yesterday when they were beaten 7 to 6 by the Chicago White Sox.

Heving Ineffective.

Going into the ninth with a two run lead, the ineffectiveness of relief Pitcher Joe Heving and a lapse in the Cleveland defensive enabled Chicago to score three times and grab the victory.

As a result of the loss Cleveland dropped into a tie for third place with the New York Yankees.

Willis Hudlin started in the box for Cleveland and pitched fair ball. He had one bad inning, the second, in which he permitted the White Sox to score four times. After that Hudlin worked well until lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

A home run by Hal Trosky with one man on base in the second inning gave Cleveland its first counters. The Indians did not score again until the eighth when they drove Thornton Lee to the showers with a four run splurge and took the lead 6 to 4.

Pytlak Throws Wildly.

A walk and two singles off Heving opened the Chicago ninth and sent the veteran to the showers. Denny Galehouse than came in and was nicked for another single that sent across the tying run and put the winning marker on third. The latter came across when Frankie Pytlak cut loose with a wild throw in an attempt to trap the runner.

Johnny Whitehead set the Indians down in order in their half of the ninth

The clubs were to meet again today with Earl Whitehill and Bill Dietrich as the opposing hurlers.

Dauber Favorite In Preakness

BALTIMORE—(AP)—Ten trim colts trained to hair-trigger fineness awaited only the starter's gong today to chase after the $70,000 preakness prize, year's most dollar-decked offering for 3-year-olds.

Although Dauber, second in the derby, reigned a 5-2 favorite as the first of an expected crowd of 45,000 poured into Pimlico, most experts classed the field for the 48th running as well-balanced. Originally 11 were named for the rich purse but late last night, Anaflame, filly owned by William Woodward, started coughing and Trainer James Fitzsimmons announced she would not start. Probably not more than seven will face the barrier at about 4:55 p. m. (EST).

Reserve's One-Man Track Team Also Stars in Other Sports

Joe Scott Shows 'em How to Do It by Winning 7 Firsts in Meet.

By RAY BLOSSER
Associated Press Sports Writer.

A TALL, soft-spoken Western Reserve university sophomore named Joe Scott, who did some pretty neat athletic tricks in past editions of the Mansfield Relays, complains he can't find time to sleep. See why:

The "one-man track team" from Elyria won six first places and a third against Carnegie Tech, and the next week won all seven of the events he entered against the University of Cincinnati. Scott, 22 has his eyes on the 1940 Olympic decathlon.

Quits Fotball.

He decided to quit his football fullbacking duties only after a knee injury last fall. As a center and forward, Scott won his basketball letter.

He dashes away from Reserve's track team to shoot in the higher 70's for Reserve's golf team. He can't play baseball as he did in high school, because Reserve has no baseball team.

Scott also studies for his liberal arts degree, looking toward a coaching career

"I can't find time to go to bed," says the 6-foot-2-inch track team, who weighs 180 pounds and doesn't know yet what marks he can make in a wide variety of track events.

In high school he pole vaulted over 13 feet, ran the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds, high jumped 6 feet 2 inches and ran the 120-yard high hurdles in 15 seconds, among other things. Since he had NO competition as a freshman and hadn't yet warmed up. Scott didn't know how much help his two years of added strength and stamina would be.

Developing Fast.

He has been developing fast in the discus, shot put and javelin and, in addition to running both hurdles, tries the broad jump for better than 20 feet. The 1,500-meter run will worry him most in the decathlon, he says, but he thinks he can learn to run this event.

"He can play tennis, too," enthuses Karl Davis, Western Reserve athletic director. "He can play anything."

Seeks Advancement For 'Chuck' Cronin

LeCrone Attempts to Gain Berth for Tiffin Star With Mid-Atlantic League Club.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor

CHUCK CRONIN may get a chance to open his assortment of teasers in a league of higher classification before many days.

Apparently capable of performing in a stronger circuit, Cronin, who received his start in fast company on a Mansfield diamond, has been denied a chance to advance because of his slight stture, despite a pair of impressive records in the Ohio State league.

Charley Le Crone, his employer in Tiffin, would like to keep Cronin on the pay roll as his presence assures the Mud Hens of at least one winning hurler, but he believes the youngster deserves an opportunity to go up, and he's now trying to land him with the Charleston club of the Mid-Atlantic league, another Detroit Tiger affiliate.

Other Ohio State league graduates with less pitching skill than Cronin possesses have fared well in Class C competition, and there is no reason to suspect that the former Mansfielder could not make the grade.

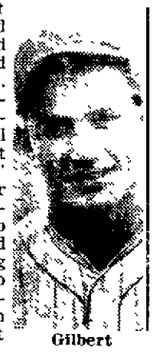
DiMaggio, Dickey Fail Ol' Lefty.

MORE BASEBALL: Perhaps the most peculiar thing about Bobby Feller's duel with Lefty Gomez the other afternoon was not the fact that he allowed five hits, whiffed nine and issued only three walks. It was the failure of Joe Dimaggio and Bill Dickey, greatest "in the clutch," to hold up their own on the defense. Their two fumbles ruined Gomez' pitching performance to enable the Indians to triumph . . . It is not generally known, but Mrs. Rollie Hemsley accompanied her rollicking husband on the Indians' eastern swing to keep him under control.



Gilbert

And the Associated Press' Eddie Brietz writes: President Will Harridge of the American league could provide some red hot reading if he'd release the blistering letter Johnny Allen of the Indians said he wrote Harridge when he paid that $25 fine for stalling . . . Not all's so rosy down Moultrie, Ga., way these days. Dewey Stover's Moultrie boys are wallowing in the basement of the Georgie-Florida loop today. . . .

See where Tighe, who caught for Tiffin last summer, is now with Beamont of the Texas league, and catching regularly . . . He has Dixie Howell of Alabama grid fame as a teammate . . . Paul is having his troubles in the same league. He dropped 2-1 decisions in his last two appearances. . . . Chalk up another victory for lean Gordon Mann, late of Marion, with 'Frisco in the Coast league. His last was against Seattle. He didn't finish because he became wild after socking a batsman in the head in the seventh.

Haulbrook Fails To Hit Stride.

LONNIE HAULBROOK, who nearly wrecked the covers of baseballs around here last summer, is hitting less than George Biershenk's .273 for Clarksdale in the Cotton States . . . Ted Kleinhans, from down Knox county, has been released by the Reds to Syracuse . . .

Pittsburgh will not take over the Mansfield franchise, according to present indications. The Pirates just fixed up a working agreement with another Class D club, McKeesport, Pa. . . . Johnny Barrett is slapping the ball hard for Hazelton in the Eastern circuit, but fielding poorly. Steve Patras' talents have been confined to pinch hitting. Hal Cheney, with the same team, just took a bad whipping from Albany, pounded out in the fourth. . . . George Schneidmuller has won the only two games he has pitched for Clarksdale . . . By-State league average show Andy Gilbert slugging the horschide at a .440 pace, and Frank Stinson is hitting .300. They are teammates at Danville.

Von Cramm Gets Jail Sentence

BERLIN—(INS)—Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, aristocrat, sportsman and Germany's greatest tennis ace, today was convicted of immorality and sentenced to a year in jail.

The exact charges against Von Cramm never were revealed and his trial was held before presiding Judge Sponer in secret behind the grim walls of Moabit prison. No witnesses were called and public and press were excluded.

The two months which Van Cramm has spent in jail since his arrest will be subtracted from his sentence

Hi-Speeds Only Mansfield Team to Play Home Sunday

Herrick's Oilmen Tackle Columbus Red Sox at League Park.

WHAT will be lacking in quantity will probably be made up in quality on the Mansfield baseball front Sunday.

Only one baseball game is on tap for Mansfield followers of the diamond Sunday, and it will be staged at League park, where the undefeated Hi-Speeds will engage the Columbus Red Sox at 3 p. m.

No games are scheduled at the Fairground until a week from Sunday when the American Legion club opens its home schedule in the Central Ohio league with Logan.

Earl Herricks' Hi-Speeds will be seeking their third straight victory Sunday. They defeated the Sandusky and Carey teams in the first two appearances.

Peter Beer, whose nifty pitching has been a feature of the Hi-Speed games, will oppose the touted Columbus semi-pro club. Max Scott will be behind the plate.

Frantz DeHaven, a brother of the Hi-Speeds' crack shortstop, Bob, will make his debut in the Mansfield team's lineup Sunday.

The Red Sox won 25 games and lost only six last year. Bill Foley, who formerly hurled for Aquinas hig, or Chuck Lehman, an East pitching product, will toe the hillock for the invaders.

* * *

Deeds to Toil For Legionnaires.

DEWEY DURANT'S Central Ohio league representatives will make their second appearance of the season Sunday at Coshocton. The American Legion club will be after their first victory in an attempt to make amends for the 2 to 0 defeat administered by the Columbus Federal Glasses last week.

Durant announced today that Lefty Deeds, his only southpaw, will go to the mound against Coshocton, which was recently strengthened by the addition of Chappie Geygan, former Boston Red Sox and Ohio State league star. Durant plans to start his young catcher, Selsby, behind the plate.

Durant also expects to have Ed Willard, former Mohican Chevrolet star, available for the game Sunday.

In the other Central Ohio league games Sunday, Newark goes to Columbus, New Philadelphia invades Logan and Marion plays at Lancaster.

* * *

The Rex Billiards will go to Hayesville Sunday to see what they can do with the offerings of Bill McKinley, who limited the Canzols to only one hit last Sunday. The game is called for 2:30 p. m.

Manager John Stoner will select either Rose or Fosnight to twirl, with Moore going to the hill today against the Mansfield Colored Elks at League park. Mt. Vernon Merchants, originally scheduled, cancelled.

* * *

Canzols Play Pair At West Salem.

JEFF HOLMQUIST will take his Ira D. Ling Canzols to West Salem Sunday for a double-header. Holmquist announces that the lineup has been bolstered by the addition of several new players, including John Linta, Mansfield high pole vault star. Linta will be on third.

Lefty Diehl will hurl the first game, with Au behind the plate. Weigant or Lockhart will toe the hill for the second game. Smollen will be the receiver.

* * *

Russ Remy's Mansfield Merchants, who split even in their first two games, will make their first appearance on the road Sunday when they go to Lucas to engage the Merchants of that city. Remy has not announced his battery choices for the game.

* * *

The Estes Coal & Ice baseball team will make its debut Sunday at Ontario. Mel Kolb will toe the mound for the Icemen, with Manager Ernie Washington behind the plate.

Washington said today that his team is after a game for next Sunday. He can be reached at Adam 2926.

Galento Now Wants Crack At Champion

Puts Mann Away Quicker Than Did Joe Louis.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Tony Galento, the plump tavern-keeper of Orange, N. J., climbed up on a rubbing table in Madison Square Garden, beat his breast in Tarzan-like fashion and bellowed:

"I'll knock Baer out. I'll knock out Tommy Farr, too. I'll knock Louis out. I'll knock 'em all out—quick!"

Ends In Second.

Only a few minutes before this boast was made he had knocked out rugged Nathan Mann of New Haven after two minutes, four seconds of fighting in the second round of a scheduled ten-rounder.

Joe Louis, the heavyweight champion, fought Mann Feb. 23, and needed 1:56 of the third round to turn the same trick.

Mike Jacobs, who promoted the show, will confer with Galento's manager, Joe Jacobs, today, regarding Tony's next performance. Probably he will fight Maxie Baer, the former champion, in July with the winner to get a shot either in September or next June at the winner of the Schmeling-Louis title fight on June 22.

Mann, weighing 191¾, had the edge over his 232-pound, paunchy opponent in the first round when he opened a slight cut over Tony's lip.

In the second round, Mann made the mistake of trying to rough it up. Tony bent over into a crouch and moved in like a mad boar. His let hook flashed to Nate's jaw and Mann was knocked through the ropes near a neutral corner and took a count of nine.

Right Does It.

Galento went to the opposite corner. As Mann rose, he lumbered across the ring, and with the momentum of his beefy frame behind him, let go an awkward right. Mann went down to the canvas—got to his knees and was just ready to get up on his feet when Referee Arthur Donovan tolled the fatal "10 and out."

Open Church Loop Monday

Three games will be on tap for followers of the Y. M. C. A. Church Class A softball league when the teams inaugurate the season at 6 p. m. Monday.

First Methodist, last year's champions, has withdrawn from the circuit this season.

Resume Rivalry On Softball Field

The Schoolmaster clubs of Mansfield and Sandusky will take their athletic rivalry to the softball diamond Tuesday when they collide at Prospect park. A return game will be played in Sandusky, Tuesday, May 24.

Included in the Sandusky team lineup are five coaches, Whittaker, Glenright, Blough, Blum and Rowland. The game is scheduled at 6 p. m.

Hurls Musilles to 8-1 Win Over East Siders.

Dale McKinley must have something on the ball, as they say in diamond slang.

McKinley struck out 23 men as he hurled the Musille club to an 8 to 1 victory over the East Side Nite club at Liberty park yesterday to run his strike out total in six games to 95.

The Musille pitching star limited the losers to five hits and awarded only two bases on balls as he kept the foes away from the plate until the ninth inning. Fetter got a triple off McKinley.

The Musilles found the pitching of Wagner for a dozen hits, scoring four runs in the opening inning and four more in the fifth. Miller of the Musilles hit for the circuit.

Red Sox Hold Second Place; Rise Virtually Unheralded

Wilson Hurls Second Straight Shutout to Extend Boston's Win Streak to Six Games.

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Beneath the hub-bub caused by the cannonading of the Cleveland Indians, the New York Yankees and the Washington Senators, the steady efficiency of the Boston Red Sox in the American league has gone almost unheralded

But today, on the crest of six straight victories, the Red Sox are up in second place—just a brief half-game off the pace of the Senators.

Blanks Senators.

Yesterday, Wilson pitched the Sox from fourth to second by white-washing the Senators, 10-0 while the Bostonians were nailing ex-teammate Wes Ferrell for 13 hits. It was Wilson's second straight shutout and the sixth successive win for the Sox.

Meanwhile, the Yankees continued to complicate the American league squirrel cage by losing to the Philadelphia Athletics, 8 to 6, and dropping into a tie for third with the Indians, who also lost.

Wally Moses' homer amid a five run rally, and Rookie Wayne Ambler's five hits in a perfect day at bat paced the A's 15-hit attack on Monte Pearson Bump Hadley and Lee Stine George Caster was the winning pitcher, although he was relieved by Nelson Potter in the seventh

The Detroit Tigers belted out 14 hits to defeat the St. Louis Browns 7 to 5 George Gill, Tiger hurler was touched for 11 hits Jim Walkup was the loser, while Bonetti and Mills shared the Browns' pitching burden

Bues Drop Cubs.

In the only National league game played, the Pittsburgh Pirates took a 10-inning thriller from the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1 The loss dropped the Cubs five and a half games behind the Giants and brought the Bucs to within a half game of the second place Bruins.

SYNOPSIS

Clayton Odell, a stranger in Norwood, is taking a sun bath in a canoe on a nearby lake one Saturday afternoon in July when the craft is jolted violently. A second later a yellow bathing cap rises over the side of the canoe and a girl, short of breath, apologizes for the intrusion. He invites her to climb aboard, which she does with alacrity. She is obviously relieved by this chance to rest after a long swim. She says she went out swimming with several girls from her office, and was trying to improve her distance. But her endurance was not equal to her ambitions. The canoe was her only refuge. After a lively conversation the girl, responding to a question from Clayton, tells him her name is Hillary Layne, and that she works in the office of the hosiery mills owned by Romulus Wardlaw, whom she describes as "sort of shriveled up and grouchy." Her inexpert knowledge of shorthand had irked him when she once substituted for his secretary. She also complains about the poor pay all the employes receive. Clayton gives her his name, but otherwise does not identify himself. He brings her to shore. Hillary returns to her home, which she shares with her mother, a brother Griffith, and a sister, Muriel, whose childhood sweetheart, an aviator, was killed in an accident. Her mother tells Hillary she just heard that Wardlaw's nephew, named Odell, had come to Norwood to help run the mills. In the office Monday Hillary, who has charge of the files, is painfully embarrassed when Wardlaw's secretary, Miss Harrison, standing beside Odell, beckons to her.

CHAPTER V

"Miss Layne, this is Mr. Odell who is going to be associated with Mr. Wardlaw," Matilda Harrison explained graciously. "He wishes to look at our files. The system, you know. Will you be good enough to show him?"

Hillary favored the young man with a cold stare and nod. "Surely," she answered, the chill in her voice matching that of her eyes. She turned and walked toward the steel cases, leaving Clayton to follow. "General correspondence in this first section," she informed briefly, coming to a halt.

Odell scanned the index card on the topmost drawer, pulled out the container forward on its roller bearings.

"Nice files. They don't stick," he observed in a low voice. Then added: "And I don't give a tinker's dam about them. I merely wanted to beg your pardon, Hillary Layne. Very sorry."

"Invoices in the next section," said Hillary's frigid little voice. She moved ahead, opened another top drawer with a resounding clang. "It was beastly," she added, under cover of the noise.

"In voices. I see. I'm still sorry."

"Copies of orders, next. Alphabetically arranged by firm names. 'Abbott Brothers'...and so on. You're still being beastly."

"All very clear, but not so encouraging," Clayton mused. He reached for another drawer and opened it experimentally. "Here we have the 'F's'. If there is any forgiveness, it ought to be around here. F-A....F-E..."

"I'm sorry, but we don't have that name on file," Hiliary remarked clearly. "And I don't think you are being so terribly humorous. Besides these general files, we have others in the vault and transfer room. I don't think you would be interested in them particularly and I would really like to get back to my desk."

"Why, of course. I'll be able to find my way here without troubling you again. I mean I'll try not to trouble you too much. By the way, I believe a gentleman by name of Knott looks after your accounting in the main. Would you mind pointing him out?"

"That is he standing by the desk over in the corner. The man wearing an eye shade. Was there anything else, Mr. Odell?"

"I suppose not. It is not far from noon. I think I won't bother Mr. Knott until he has had his lunch. Thank you so much."

* * *

With an engaging smile, he strolled to his uncle's room, entered and closed the door after him. Hiliary walked mechanically to her desk, sat down with a grim determination to disregard the knowing glances and smiles coming from all directions.

She was seething inwardly. It was unspeakable that Mr. Odell had singled her out like that... made her conspicuous in front of all the others. It wouldn't take long for the girls of the swimming party to draw their conclusions. Olive would be a big help. If only Hiliary hadn't mentioned the name of Odell. But it was too late to worry over that. No matter what explanation she offered, it would be greeted with jeers. Then came the hysterical desire to burst out laughing. Pretending to show Mr. Odell their filing system! His bland interest.... then, in an aside, insisting she forgive him for the trick he had played on her. And all without a smile. It was so nervy that it really was rather funny, after all.

But if Mr. Odell thought for one little minute that...

"Hey, love's young dream! Didn't you hear the clock go twelve?"

It was Olive, smiling provokingly.

"Of course I did. I'm going to lunch in a second."

"Don't tell me the new boss asked you! You're sure the fast worker."

"Skip it, will you? I didn't have the faintest idea who the man was when I spoke to him Saturday. You don't need to believe it. The whole thing's so dumb that nobody would believe the truth. So what's the use?"

"Well, it didn't take him long to figure out a way to meet you again. And the nerve of you telling me he wasn't good-looking! He's got me palpitating almost as bad as poor old Harrison. We're all jealous of you, if you want to know. Let's go."

* * *

Beginning with that first day in the offices of the Norwood Mills, Clayton Odell was unobtrusively, but very much, in evidence. He browsed through ledgers and form records, making copious notes on scratch paper. Much of his time was spent in conferring with Mr. Knott. That gentleman, who was one of the oldest employes, was at first nervously resentful of the attention he drew from the newcomer, then thawed perceptibly when the younger man proved respectfully attentive and surprisingly well-informed in the matter of cost accounts.

In his easy and informal way, Mr. Odell also managed to contact all the others in the main office, discovering what records they were responsible for, their incidental duties and names. The latter he seemed never to forget. There was but one person whom he neglected on his casual round-up.

Miss Hiliary Layne of the files.

Perhaps he felt that her case had been attended to ahead of the others. Perhaps he told the truth when he said he didn't "give a tinker's dam" about files. Perhaps he considered that he had attempted to make amends for his earlier presumptuousnes and had been rebuffed. Perhaps he was wating for her to make the next move. Hiliary went over "perhaps" list many times without any satisfactory conclusions. Mr. Odell always greeted her smilingly and by name when he encountered her in his excursions about the office. But that was all. And, woman-like, she resented it.

When the new office was completed, he was less in evidence. He did his studying and held most of his conferences in its seclusion. For all anyone knew, l.e might be spending considerable time with Old Rommy. Their rooms were communicating and the outer doors frequently were closed.

Clayton still remained an object of deep interest both in the office and out in the mill itself. But no exciting details regarding his past came to light. At first, he accompanied Mr. Wardlaw to and from work in the latter's car piloted by Jeremy Kime. Then, one day, he appeared driving his own car. It was a roadster, powerful but far from new. He evidently was still making his home with his uncle and, so far as anyone knew, gave no evidence of having any family of his own. It appeared also that he sometimes spent an evening in his office, reported by old Mr. Withers, the night watch. According to this guardian, "that young Odell feller" was nice to get on with.

And so to another Saturday. Four weeks to a day since her first unwitting encounter with Clayton Odell, Hiliary Layne mused when her eye chanced to fall upon a large calendar ornamenting the wall near her desk. Four weeks, almost since, she had exchanged a word with him. The thought was still in her mind when she realized that someone was speaking to her. She turned with a start to discover Miss Harrison.

"Miss Layne. Mr. Odell would like to see you in his office, if you are not too busy."

"See me!" Hiliary's eyes widened.

"That's what I said," was the brief retort. And Miss Harrison moved on. Hiliary's heart was beating uncomfortably as she pushed back her chair and made ready to answer the summons. Assuming an indifferent air, she strolled leisurely to his door and opened it.

To her relief, he had his back to the door. Leaning over a table and staring thoughtfully at a huge sheet of paper that was covered with black circles and lines suggesting a diagram of some sort.

"Did you wish to see me, Mr. Odell?"

"Oh, yes, Miss Layne. Please close the door and have a chair. I'll be with you in a second."

Hiliary hesitated an instant before she complied with the first request. But she remained standing close to the door, watching Clayton with puzzled eyes. He seemed to have forgotten her presence already, so depely engrossed he was with that diagram. To make matters worse, he was indulging in a low, tuneless whistling. It became so irritating that the girl was on the point of reminding him of her presence once more, when he turned about suddenly and faced her with a genial smile.

"Well, Miss Layne, we haven't had a chance to visit in a long while, have we? I hope I'm not still in the dog house...."

"No indeed," she returned sweetly. "I had forgotten all about it. Is there something I can do for you?"

"Yes. Sit down there for a moment. I won't keep you from your work long."

* * *

Clayton set her an example by taking a seat on the table, swinging his neat sport shoes slowly back and forth. He reached for a lighted cigaret lying in an ash tray and puffed it thoughtfully before making known his wishes.

"You were telling me, Miss Layne, that you helped with accounts in the office when you weren't busy with your files."

"I guess I shouldn't have said that," she interposed hastily. "It sounded as if I knew something about them. All I ever do is some posting and a lot of checking."

"Incidentally, Mr. Knott tells me that you're quick at figures and exceedingly accurate. I've been digging into your past."

Hiliary said nothing. She waited.

"Tell me some more about that course in tying and shorthand. Just how much of a bluff was it?"

"Mostly bluff. I'm afraid. I can type pretty fast, but I can't do a thing with a shorthand. I know I should have stuck to it, but there didn't seem to be any particular use. So I went in for hooked rugs. I almost made one, too."

"Umm...m. You've rather gone out of your way to impress me with the fact that you're a lady of moods and indecisions. Why?"

"Because I'm like that, I guess."

"Oh, it's quite all right. One can't know too much about a lot of things. On the other hand, I don't know why one should concentrate on an alphabetical job like filing. My scouts tell me that your control over those cabinets is amazing . . . you can find anything there in the dark. That's fine, but..."

"But you're trying to tell me that any dumbbell could do it and, maybe, you wouldn't have to pay them so much as you do me," Hiliary interposed quietly. "I get it."

"I'm so glad," he smiled. "Do I infer correctly that the hooked-rug frenzy has died at the moment?"

"It's not my idea of hot-weather pastime." The two pink warning flags showed in Larry Layne's cheeks.

"It is pretty hot today." Clayton stared from one window into the brilliant August sunshine. "But I suppose one shouldn't let a little thing like that interfere with progress. I had hoped to get around to the first lesson before this. You really must learn to handle a canoe with a single paddle. What do you think of beginning this afternoon...say about 2 o'clock?"

The interest coupons attached to said bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of the City Auditor. Said bonds shall bear such consecutive numbers as the City Auditor shall determine.

Section 5. That for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds promptly when, and as the same falls due and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and hereby is levied on all the taxable property in said city of Mansfield, Ohio, in addition to all other taxes a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay interest upon said bonds and as and when the same fall due, and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and Sinking Fund tax required by Section 11 of Article 12 of the Constitution.

Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which together with all interest collected on the same shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said bonds when and as the same fall due.

Section 6. All the faith, revenue and credit of the City of Mansfield, Ohio, are hereby pledged for the prompt payment of both principal and interest of the bonds hereinbefore described in accordance with the laws of the State of Ohio.

Section 7. That said bonds shall be first offered at par and accrued interest to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund in their official capacity and if said Trustees refuse to take any or all of said bonds then said bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law under the Direction of the Finance Committee and the Auditor, but not for less than their par value and accrued interest. The bond sale advertisement shall state that anyone desiring to do so may present a bid or bids for such bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore fixed, provided however, that where a fractional interest rate is bid such fraction shall be one-quarter of one per cent (¼ of 1%) or multiple thereof; the amount of the bond or certified check to accompany bids shall be $50.00, the proceeds from the sale of said bonds except the premium and accrued interest thereon and the amount of said bonds issued for interest shall be used for the purpose aforesaid and for no other purpose. The premium and accrued interest received from such sale and the amount of said bonds issued for interest shall be transferred to the sinking fund to apply in the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

Section 8. The City Auditor is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the County Auditor.

LEADERS CLIMB FRACTIONS IN SLOW OPENING

Traders Derive Some Cheer From Forecasts Of Increased Building Activities.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Leading stocks followed diverse routes in today's early market proceedings.

Fractionally higher at a slow opening were Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, duPont and Cerro De Pasco.

Down a shade were Chrysler, Consolidated Edison, North American, N. Y. Central, General Electric and Douglas Aircraft.

While business news continued as a cloudy market factor, some cheer was derived from forecasts of increased building activities.

With an accumulation of plans for residential construction, sustained demand for federal housing administration mortgage loans and numerous large-scale housing projects approaching the contract stage, observers believed the building volume would pick up substantially in the months ahead.

On the other hand little encouragement was found in the federal reserve figures disclosing department sales for the week ended May 7, were down 13 per cent from the comparable 1937 period.

would send a stiffly worded reply back to Mexico in the next few days.

Meanwhile, foreign office attaches were preparing a complete report on the matter for presentation to Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax upon his return from Geneva, which is expected to be expedited.

Citing the allegedly "unfriendly attitude of the British government" toward Mexico in the controversy provoked by expropriation of British and American oil properties, President Lazaro Cardenas defied the might of the British Empire by announcing his minister to London has been recalled.

Split Disturbing To U. S. Capital.

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Informed persons represented state department officials today as disturbed by Mexico's break in diplomatic relations with Great Britain and concerned lest it cause this country embarrassment.

The possibility of any such step as a British naval demonstration in Mexican waters was said to be remote, but persons close to the department expressed the opinion that in any event the rupture would make more difficult, and possibly delay, a settlement of American claims for expropriated oil properties."

These properties have been valued unofficially as high as $150,000,000. President Roosevelt, however, has indicated this government would not support claims for more than the sum actually invested.

Surgeons Split Baby's Skull So Brain Will Grow

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— A two and one-half-year-old boy rested comfortably in Children's hospital today after surgeons had split his skull and wedged the two sections apart to permit the brain to grow to normal size.

The operation—extremely delicate and rare—was performed in an effort to save the child from life-long idiocy. He is a victim of microcephaly—"little brain."

The boy is Alden Vorrath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vorrath. He is their only child and has suffered from microcephaly since infancy. He will be kept under constant care for six months during which time the two sections of his skull will be held apart by metal wedges. Not until next November will surgeons be able to determine whether the operation has been a success.

Lingafelter said that customer's names are placed on the delinquent list after May 25 for nonpayment, and if the bills are still unpaid June 1, the service is discontinued.

foot consumer, if the city will agree to a 71-cent per thousand rate for an equal number of years.

Porch said that his individual survey showed that council still stood firm against any increase in the rate and backed him in opposing the gas company's proposal on the ground that "it would put the city in a bad bargaining position at the expiration of the contract."

The company's proposal is that it will agree to the renewal of the present rate of $1 for the first 500 cubic feet and 50 cents per thousand over that amount for any period that meets with council's approval if council will approve for the same number of years a rate structure caling for $1 per thousand for the first 500 feet, 60 cents per thousand for the next 1,500 feet, 55 cents per thousand for the next 3,000 feet and 50 cents per thousand for all over 5,000 feet.

Under this plan the 5,000-foot consumer would pay 65 cents per thousand for the first half of the contract period and 71 cents per thousand for the second term of the period or an average rate of 68 cents per thousand during the duration of the contract.

Styert Expects Settlement Of O.S.R. Sewer Charge.

Following a meeting with officials of the state welfare department in Columbus yesterday on the renewal of the sewer rental contract for the Mansfield reformatory, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert today said that he expected to complete negotiations within the next two weeks.

Styert said he had made some concessions on the original proposal, which called for a 900 per cent increase over the rate that expired two months ago.

He said a short term contract would be proposed to replace the 10-year contract, drafted in 1928.

The new proposal would cost the state approximately $4,000 annually, or only about one half the figure originally set up under the new sewer rental ordinance, which went into effect last year.

Cities Are All Right But Lack Something Only Small Town Can Give

—By JANE WILLIAMS

I'VE BEEN ribbed a lot this week about being a small town gal, but the ribbers didn't know how truly they spoke. Even Mansfield is too big for me. (Despite the fact that the lads on the Cleveland Press asked slyly if the people in Mansfield used gas and electricity, wore shoes or ever had seen an automobile!)

In the past 20 years I've lived in Spokane, Los Angeles, Columbus, Toledo, Mansfield, a South Carolina cotton plantation, the hills of Kentucky, Canton, Akron, Massillon and back to Mansfield, and vacations have been spent in a dozen cities, an Indian reservation, a mining camp, the Canadian woods and pretty much hither and yon—and I still want to live in a town of not over 10,000 population. Near a city, mind you, where you can see good shows and have all of the advantages a city has to offer, without having to accept its too many disadvantages.

* * *

I LIKE to go to a big, roaring city, tramp the hot pavements until I'm ready to fall apart, do all the things one is expected to do in a city—but I always heave a sigh of relief when my back is turned on it and I'm headed once more for the long rolling fields outside of it.

I never go through a tiny town, with picket fences around the yards, a church with a tall spire, short wide streets where the trees meet over the road, that my heart doesn't skip a beat. And invariably I think, "Some day I'll come back here and stay for a little while."

* * *

A metropolitan city can give you sophistication, but a small town can give you a mental poise that comes only from close association with Mother Earth, and simple, unpretending things. The city can bring you many and interesting acquaintances; but in a small community you can earn deep and lasting friendships with years of common interests, sympathy and sharing.

Culture isn't a prerogative of city dwellers for it's something that comes from within and may be inspired by small town associations as easily as by symphonies and art galleries. The noise and dirt of a city go on eternally; in a small town the one dies down after sunset and the other is washed away by the first rain.

All of which may give you an idea that I'm a living example of the truism that you can take a gal out of the country but not the country etc. I was, thank God, born in a little bit of a town, and by His grace, I'll die in one.

P. S. After I've been everywhere and seen everything, I hope

AN interesting interview was with Bengeman Gayelord Hauser, the Vienna dietitian whose "cosmetic diet" and personal advice are demanded by the beauties of Hollywood, and whose book "Eat and Grow Beautiful" interests women everywhere.

His "cosmetic diet" is as simple as grandma's sulphur and molasses and sassafras in the spring. The chemical properties of foods are used to build and beautify. Carrots and oats will make your hair glossy as a race horse's hide; buttermilk and cheese keep your fingernails from breaking and peeling. Sulphur, which you get in onions, radishes, lettuce and young cabbage, gives your skin that schoolgirl perfection.

If you want eyes that sparkle like Claudette Colbert's, eat bales of escarole—it's a straight leaf endive and professional beauties eat it every day—which you can buy at most vegetable markets.

And lastly, said Bengeman, with a fascinating accent, if you want to avoid that dry skin which 77 per cent of all American women have and which brings on early wrinkles, don't pour the water of cooked vegetables down the sink. Drink it. It will do more than all of the "night creams" in the world.

There doesn't seem to be anything new in that—but a smart man has made himself famous by pretending that it is new.

* * *

AND while we are on the subject of foods, you may as well know I consumed 67,000 calories in one gulp at a luncheon at the Cleveland hotel. The interesting thing about it was that it was planned and all of the recipes for it created by Rex Stout, author of the Nero Wolfe mystery novels, and who was "there in person."

The Printemps sauce for his "baby turkey" was like Frank Morgan's—so much "likker" in it that if you didn't like the turkey you could throw it away and drink the sauce. And a cream soup vichyssoise (neither do I) made with heavy cream, leek, sorrel, chives and stuff. One plate of it and you can't get into your evening dress. And sweet potato souffle whipped up with hot rum and toasted pecans; calavo and strawberry salad; and a whole pineapple stuffed with sherbet; and cafe viennois (coffee over ice cream). Mr. Stout never heard of a grocery budget.

He gave us all a whole set of his unbelievable recipes, and if anyone in Mansfield can afford 'em, I'll be glad to send the recipes.

Decree Orders Czechs to Obtain Gas Masks

MOVE AFFECTS ALL MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Prison Faces Those Failing To Get War Equipment; Sudetens Form Military Group.

(By United Press)

PRAGUE—Czechoslovakia, preparing urgently against the possibility of war, today ordered every citizen of the Prague area to obtain an officially stamped gas mask by Dec. 31 under penalty of fine or imprisonment.

Police, promulgating the decree, said that men, women and children were covered. A price of 85 crowns ($3) was set for the standard mask with the provision that poor persons might apply for a discount according to their necessities. There is a de luxe model, somewhat more comfortable, at 189 crowns ($6.60).

Organize Troops.

The situation as regards the German minority became somewhat more acute with the announcement that the "Sudeten" (minority) Germans had established a "volunteer German Protective Service" constituting a storm troop organization on the German Nazi model, to be called by its initials "FS" whereas the German troop organizations are the SS and SA. Wilhelm Brander, designated as the active leader, said of it:

"The FS is no parade troop but a fighting battalion. Its duty will be to protect Henlein (Konrad Henlein, minority leader) and maintain order at party meetings. We will march with the FS to victory of our racial group in our fight for the right to live and for room to live."

Minister of Interior Josef Cerny gave official permission for the organization to function, as part of the present policy of placating the minority leaders.

It was announced that the inner council of the cabinet had completed in broad outline the proposed statute to grant minorities a greater measure of self government.

Up and Down THE STREET

There's at least one person in Mansfield who believes what he reads in the newspaper. He must have read the story about today being official "straw hat day," for he appeared on the street this morning sporting a jaunty Panama in weather more suited to ear muffs. He looked stylish, but lonesome. Of such spirit were the early pioneers born.

* * *

If any one in Mansfield had reason to go about yesterday with fingers crossed, it was Dean Sams, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sams, 84 East First street. Because it wasn't only "Friday the 13th," but it was his 13th birthday. Only twice before in his 13 years has his birthday fallen on a Friday, 13th. It happened first in 1928 on his third birthday, and again in 1932 on his seventh birthday. But of course, the real hazard was his 13th birthday on the "hoodoo day," and now that's past, he can snap his fingers at any to follow.

We don't know whether Mayor Claude M. Hunter knows it or not—but the American flag that was hung recently on the wall in his office before he arrived one morning only has 46 stars in its field of blue. Wonder what happened to the other two?

There's a lot of human interest in the reports made by workers in the Community Fund campaign; some of it inspirational, and some that isn't so good. There was the story yesterday of the little stenographer who doesn't make a lot of money and whose money is needed at home, but she gave the solicitor, Mrs. R. E. Hutchison, a $10 bill and wished that she could make it more. But on the other hand there was the professional man who has no dependents who hurled $2 at a worker with the admonition "—and if that isn't enough you can go to ——." It probably will interest contributors like that to know that even though their names are not published, the story gets around pretty widely.

BRIDGE, VITAL TO RAILROAD, BLOWN TO BITS

Chinese Destroy Harbor At Terminus Of Line In Move To Thwart Nipponese.

(By International News Service)

SHANGHAI—After months of fighting, Japanese forces claimed today to have cut China's vital "life-line," the Lunghai railway leading from the coast into the central interior.

Nipponese headquarters here issued a communique stating their mobile column advancing on the railway from the south had cut the line west of Suchow, near Tangshan, by blowing up a steel bridge.

From Hankow, at the same time, came reports that Chinese troops were systematically destroying the harbor works at Haichow, coastal terminus of the railway, in anticipation of Japanese attempts to land there.

Tear Up Tracks.

In addition, the Hankow advices said, the Chinese were tearing up tracks and blowing up bridges along the line.

Meanwhile, from Hong Kong came an unconfirmed report that Japanese troops landed at the village of Meihua, ten miles south of the port city of Foochow, under cover of a naval barrage and aerial bombing onslaught.

On the central front, before claiming to have cut the Lunghai railway the Japanese were reported drawing a gigantic noose around an estimated half million Chinese soldiers.

The struggle in the Lunghai region was believed nearing its decisive hour, with the main converging Japanese columns approaching the railway from both north and south.

BRITAIN THREATENS

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—British residents threatened independent retaliation against Japanese today unless their government avenged the bayonetting of an unarmed British subject by a Japanese sentry.

British consular authorities, admitting candidly that they regarded the incident the most serious of the entire Japanese-Chinese war, urged the British residents' association to postpone a mass meeting to consider direct action to protect Britons in Shanghai against Japanese attack. There was open talk of a break of relations.

BARES FINDINGS IN AIR CRASH

U.S. Commission Says Mishap Which Killed Two Here, Due To Unknown Cause.

The United States Bureau of Air commerce today reported its findings on the fatal air crash early in March that claimed the lives of Pilot Genn Gages and a student flyer, Theodore T. Crum.

The bureau reported that the probable cause of the accident, that occurred while Crum was receiving instructions in spins preparatory to taking his examination for a pilot's license, was due to failure from some unknown cause, of the ship to recover from an intentional spin.

Their report however explained that it was possible that either Crum "froze" to the controls or that the airplane had gotten out of control as the result of previous acrobatic maneuvers.

The bureau also pointed out that while civil air regulations require that "parachutes must be worn when intentional acrobatic maneuvers are being performed," neither student nor pilot wore one.

They said investigation of the wreckage gave no indication of engine or structural failure. They did however, point out that the history of the plane showed that it had been previously subjected to severe acrobatic maneuvers.

Gages, 29 and Crum, 30, both crashed to their death from 2,000 feet March 9, five miles west of Mansfield near the Gages airport less than 30 minutes after they had gone aloft.

COUNCIL GETS LAST SMALLPOX BILL, ALLOTS $561 FOR VACCINE

Last echoes of the smallpox epicemic here early this year were heard last night when city council authorized a supplemental appropriation of $561 to pay the city's share of the cost of smallpox vaccine purchased by the health department during the period.

In order to carry out the city-wide WPA curb and gutter replacement project council also approved a appropriation of $2,000 for the city's share on the construction job.

Two transfers totaling $1,500 were made in the sewer department. The sum of $1,000 was shifted from the sanitary sewer fund to the sewage plant maintainence fund and another $500 was transferred from the sanitary sewer fund to the supplies fund at the sewage disposal plant.

Council President Karl P. Troll referred six petitions to the various council committees. These included a petition from J. C. Bauman for construction of a sidewalk along 374-foot frontage of his property which was started last year under WPA, at the rate of 12 cents per foot. This petition and one from property owners on Green sereet to vacate apart of the street were referred to the street committee.

A petition from property owners on Springmill street to construct a sanitary sewer at 516 Springmill street and a request from Alfred Nickles for permission to enter the sanitary sewer on Grace street was sent to the sewer committee.

The water committee will get the petition of property owners on Barnard avenue and Coleman road for the construction of a water line on the street. A petition from property in South Boulevards for annexation to the city was referred to the planning commission.

Miners Back at Work In Burning Coal Pit Sectors

NEW STRAITSVILLE—(AP)—James R. Cavanaugh, chief engineer in charge of the federal government's fight against a subterranean fire that has been eating away the heart of this rich coal district for 54 years, announced today that the flaming menace had been turned back on the first of three fronts thrown up to end the world's largest mine fire.

Miners, driven above earth in increasing numbers through the years by collapsing tunnels and choking fumes, are returning to work in that area, some of them for the first time in 30 years, he asserted.

Cavanaugh said the fingers of flame had been stopped at an earthen barrier which WPA workers completed hurriedly in a fight against time.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Dirty Stories Told About President and First Lady Insult American Decency

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—At the risk of seeming self-righteous, I would like to propose a cloture on dirty or insulting stories about the President of the United States and Mrs. Roosevelt. People who tell such stories are bores, anyway, and in telling them are guilty of an imposition which justifies rebuke.

Of course, in public office and say what you will, Mrs. Roosevelt has made a public office of her position—a man or a woman must submit to criticism, some of it of questionable fairness. But there are certain things that no man or woman should have to stand for and most Americans I think will agree that dirty stories should be ruled out.

* * *

Ordinarily, most of us are patient with pests who tell long and stupid stories about the traveling salesman who came to the farmhouse, although I understand that Ring Lardner always headed off such attempts on his peace of mind with some quick and biting insult, thus sparing himself many hours of boredom.

A more effective preventive I have never heard than that adopted by Henry Farrell, the sports writer, one day. Henry, a Catholic, was sitting at his desk when a friend, who knew he was a Catholic, came over, grinning amiably, and said 'Did I ever tell you the story about the two nuns? I will knock you dead."

"No," Henry said, "and if you do I will knock you dead."

The story of the two nuns was not told in Mr. Farrell's hearing.

* * *

However, I take it that even persons who are opposed to the New Deal and have no personal admiration for Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt will be glad to forego it, with little encouragement to hear the telling of low tales about them.

I have noticed that this form of humor as to the Roosevelts is favored mainly by men and women—the women can dish it, too, these days—who seem to be doing very well notwithstanding the New Deal.

In New York such items seem to be known as Wall Street stories, although dull as they are, they seem a few cuts below the level of brokers' and gamblers' repartee. I rather believe they come from Palm Beach or some of our more expensive, and paradoxically cheap, night clubs where professional gigolos from Europe cadge drinks from rich and restless American ladies and hire out for matrimony on short-term contracts.

* * *

Whatever their origin, however they are an affront to the intelligence, patience and loyalty of Americans who respect the presidency and decent women. Fun is fun, and I merely propose that, in the phrase of the old vaudeville [illegible] we should keep it clean and keep it clean.

Lancaster Man, Found In Hotel, Recovers At Hospital.

G. H. Nystrom, 73, of Lancaster, who is said by police to have slashed his throat with a razor in a downtown hotel room Thursday night, was reported recovering today at General hospital.

Nystrom was found by police at 9:35 p. m. Thursday, lying on the floor of his room with a deep knife wound in his neck. They said a straight edged razor was found nearby. Hospital physicians said the aged man had a good chance to recover as the razor blade had missed the jugular vein. His condition was reported as good.

According to police, Nystrom's chauffeur, Harold J. Sandedge, told them that he was in his room adjoining Nystrom's when he heard a noise. Investigating he said he found his employer lying on the floor with his head in a pool of blood.

CLUB CHORUS OF 35 VOICES WILL STAGE CANTATA

Music Study Group Presents 'Christ in the World' Sunday Afternoon.

The Mansfield Music Study club chorus of 35 voices, under the direction of A. LeMoine Derr, presents the cantata, "Christ In the World," by Noble Cain, at 4 p. m. Sunday at the First Congregational church.

The text of the cantata is taken from the scriptures, being excerpts which promote Christ as a universal influence rather than a creedal element of orthodoxy. The music is designed for dramatic simplicity.

Assisting the choir will be a celesta choir of 12 young people. Soloists will be Mrs. Mary Anglin and Mrs. Thurza Hazeltine. Special numbers will be sung by a quartet comprised of Russell Tither, Sarah Katherine Wallace, Mrs. Herman Gilbert and Paul Watts. Miss Louise Krause will accompany the chorus at the organ.

The organ prelude and postlude will be played by Miss Elizabeth Burneson. For the former she will play, "Evening Bells and Cradle Songs," by MacFarland, and for the postlude she will present, "Allegretto" by Guilmant, and "Finale in A" by Harris.

SERVICE INCLUDES MUSIC

Vocal and organ music will be presented Sunday at the Park Avenue Baptist church during the church service at 10:30 a. m.

The choir, under the direction of Lawrence S. Frank, minister of music, will sing Beethoven's "The Heavens Are Telling," and a quartet comprised of Earl Adams, Paul Seifert, W. E. Wygant, jr., and Thomas Cordell, will sing a negro spiritual.

Frank will play as the organ selections, "Traumerei," by Schumann, "Andante" from "Orpheo," by Cluck, and "March of the Priests," by Mendelssohn. Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor, will preach on the subject, "After All, What Is Left?"

A meeting of the B. Y. P. U. will be held at 5:30 p. m. Sunday at the church. Ruth Husung will lead the group in a discussion on the subject, "Keeping Our Friendships Christian."

The finance committee of the church meets at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the church. Tolman Burns, chairman of the group, will preside.

SCIENTIST TOPIC

'Mortals And Immortals To Be Lesson Subject Tomorrow.

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly" (1 Corinthians 15:48).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before . . . I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" (Phillippians 3:13, 14.)

LUTHERAN SOUND PICTURES TO BE SHOWN AT 5 CHURCHES SUNDAY

The first full-length sound motion picture to be produced by a church organization will be shown at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the five Mansfield Lutheran churches.

The movie, entitled, "Thunder of the Sea," is being presented as a part of the 20th anniversary celegration of the founding of the United Lutheran Church in America. The picture will have 26 showings Sunday evening in other parts of the country.

It will be presented here at the First Lutheran, St. Paul Lutheran, St. Luke's Lutheran, St. Mark's Lutheran, and St. Matthew's Lutheran churches.

The title of the film was taken from the last line of the famous hymn, "Rise Ye Chlidren of Salvation," which was written by Justus Falckner, who was the first Lutheran minister to be ordained in America.

Under the glare of klieg lights, students of drama have been filmed in historical surroundings in Pennsylvania, Virginia and other colonial settings. The history of the church's struggle graphically told in the scenes of the reformation and the strategic parts played by the pioneer missionaries, the Muhlenbergs, in early America.

Music by the late George Gershwin blends in the musical score with the singing of hymns by the famous St. Olaf Lutheran choir.

Crowd and riot scenes have been gathered from the streets of New York and Chicago, along with pictures from modern life such as smoking factories, homes disrupted from unemployment, farms devastated by drought, and business men plunged into ruin by the stock market.

As a climax to the picture, scenes of the actual building and dedication of the Prince of Peace and Zion-St. Michael churches in Philadelphia are depicted under the assistance of the American Lutheran board.

Ashland Instructor Addresses Baptist Mothers, Daughters.

Miss Thelma Slack, instructor of dramatics at Ashland college, was guest speaker at the annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Park Avenue Baptist church last night in the church parlors.

Miss Slack spoke on "Famous Mothers of History." In her talk she indicated that the virtues of a mother must be handed down to her daughter by a quality of life that represents the finest in ideals and character.

Other talks were given by Marjery Ann Hawkins, who represented the daughters, and Mrs. Holley Conner, who spoke for the mothers. Vocal solos were presented by Edna May Boswell and Williamine Hoffman. The invocation was given by Mrs. Hayes M. Braker.

Mrs. C. C. Kidwell, chairman of the committee on arrangements, presided during the program. Members of the supper committee were Mrs. William Kissell and Mrs. Tolman Burns. The affair was attended by 95 mothers and their daughters.

GO TO ALASKA

JUNEAU, Alaska —(AP)— Spring has brought Alaska an influx of destitute persons from the states seeking their fortunes.

"The number on relief in the territory is decidedly increased by these arrivals, but there seems no way to stop them,' said J. G. Rivers, member of the Alaska Welfare board.

Mansfielder To Go To England as Exchange Student

Fraser McCartney, a Mansfield student at the New York Botanical Gardens school in New York City, will go to England in June as an exchange student to the school of gardeners conducted by the Royal Botanical Gardens at Kew, England.

McCartney, the son of Mrs. James McCartney, Park avenue west road, will be in England for one year. His father was the late James McCartney, gardener at the C. K. King estate for a number of years. The youth later worked under the tutelage of John Kullman, superintendent of Raemelton farms, Marion avenue road. He went to New York to enter the botanical school two years ago.

The exchange student is selected from the leading students at the school by a committee representing the National Association of Gardeners, which sponsors the school and bears the expense of the exchange.

McCartney, who is 26 years old, was born in Scotland and comes from a long line of gardeners. He came to Mansfield with his family in 1926 and was graduated from Senior high school.

He is the first exchange student to be selected from Ohio and also the first to be named to the gardening staff of the New York Botanical gardens.

Boy Agrees With Virginia Lee's Advice

By VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I'm writing this letter with the hope that somehow you will let 'Undated,' whose letter appeared in the column, know that someone who has the same ideals she has thinks that you gave her some very sound advice when you told her to keep jolly and entertaining, and that she could have a good time without violating her ideals.

"I happen to be a boy, a little older than Undated, but do not care for dances and night clubs. I've found that there are so many things that are just as enjoyable, and I know a lot of young couples who have found the same thing to be true.

"They find enjoyment in sports, a walk or drive in the country, the theater occasionally, a quiet evening at each other's homes listening to the radio. The number of things that two young people can find to do are endless, and she should never feel discouraged because she isn't being asked out as often as some of her friends.

"Some readers of this letter might think that I am against dancing. I'm not, it is a swell way to meet people, but when taken along with other things that one can do, it doesn't amount to as much as Undated and others of us who do not dance sometimes allow ourselves to believe.

"As for smoking and drinking, many a girl and boy have wished that they would not have started such useless and expensive habits.

"Undated, you will have many good times and should be proud of your ideals. THE ANSWER."

That is a fine answer, indeed, my boy. I think a girl always is encouraged when young people her own age tell her their views on her problems, and she finds they have the same ideals as hers. She may think I'm an old fogey, or a prim and proper person, or even that I HAVE to hand out moral advice because it is my job so to do. But when you young men tell a girl that she should stick to her ideals she will know you mean it. Thank you.

Blemishes May Now Be Concealed

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

Recently science has turned from machinery to humanity, and the result is a real Godsend to people who suffer from birth marks and scars. No one who hasn't experienced the horror of having these disfigurements can know the unhappiness of a person who has had to go through life thus hindered.

At last the hard work of scientists and inventors has made possible preparations that will completely cover and conceal these blemishes. They are creams that match the color of the skin around the birthmark or scar. First they are applied like a liquid powder and then your own powder can be applied.

The most important thing to remember about this veritable boon is that the creams come in many different shades, not only to match different types, but to match the different skin tones on your face. Selecting the right shade, so that it will blend with the surrounding skin, is the first step.

It is terribly necessary to realize that your face is made up of light and dark shades. It's not like the rest of the body because Nature has given extra color to the nose, cheeks and chin.

So if you have a small or medium sized blemish on your face, it must be matched according to its location. For instance, if you have a small blemish on your cheek, select a shade that has more coloring in it to match the natural coloring of your cheek. If, however, you have a blemish on your forehead, a lighter shade is needed. Then again, there are shadows over and under the eye. Naturally, if your blemish is there, you must choose a tone that not only covers the blemish, but gives your eye the same shadow that will match the shadow on the opposite eye.

Blemish That Covers Face.

If you have a blemish that entirely or nearly covers the side of your face, then you must select a shade that blends with your skin near the neckline, so that the cream will fade off into the neck and match your skin at this point. After applying this shade, use a deeper tone of the cream to restore the natural coloring on the cheek, chin and nose — and the natural eye shadows.

Though this wonderful achievement was at first invented to disguise serious blemishes, and give those who had them a chance to compete with their luckier neighbors in business and society, it has since become a life saver for those of you who suffer from temporary distresses.

If you have an unbecoming pimple, a liverspot, a red mark from a burn, a black eye, or even varicose veins, these creams will make you look as good as new. They come in waterproof versions, so that you can go swimming without fear of being uncovered.

This department takes off its hat to these preparations. We really believe that they have done more to make people happy than many a more complicated and intricate discovery.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

There was no mistaking the voice which answered me over the telephone of the art magazine which Dicky and Edith Fairfax jointly own until he can effect an equitable dissolution of the partnership.

Even though its accents were no longer those of intoxication, as had been the case when I had heard it over the hotel telephone in a demand to speak to Dicky, I instantly recognized the roughened, somewhat raucous contralto as the one I had heard twice before.

But the manner of speech, the whole demeanor of the woman were so different from what they had been before that I could hardly believe the evidence of my own ears. She was now the brisk, efficient office super-secretary or "assistant to the manager."

"Mr. Graham is in conference," she said, and even through the rancor against woman which was rising within me, I could feel my laughter muscles constricting at the phrase. The small magazine was a fairly successful one, but it was staffed by Dicky, Edith and subordinate office employes. Just how Dicky could be "in conference" in the sense that the phrase is usually employed, was a humorous mystery only too easily solved.

Gives Maiden Name.

"But I will take your name in," she went on smoothly. "Who is calling, please?"

"Please tell him that Margaret Spencer wishes to speak to him."

"Hold the wire, please," she said, and then I heard her footsteps receding across the floor. It was several seconds before I heard them coming back again, and I could visualize the surprise, the suppressed fury and the hesitance which had been my husband's when he heard my maiden name—probably the first time in years—and knew that he must send some answer which would not betray my identity to the woman in the office.

"I am so sorry," the woman said suavely, "but Mr. Graham cannot possibly come to the telephone now. But he asks that you give him your number so that he may call you within the next quarter of an hour."

Leaves Message.

"I cannot do that," I said, "because I am leaving the city almost immediately, and I am in a tremendous hurry. The matter isn't important, really. Please tell Mr. Graham I'll call him in a day or two as soon as I get back to the city."

"Very well. I will give him your message," she said, still with the "perfect secretary manner." But I thought I detected a surly note beneath the suavity, and wondered, with a sudden stabbing doubt, what was her relation to Dicky that she should resent a call to him from another woman.

Mechanically I hung up the receiver and turned toward the door. Just how I got through it and into my car, I do not know, nor have I any recollection of traveling the first few blocks of my journey to the farm, so clouded were my mental faculties by miserable humiliated resentment.

The grinding of brakes, my own, as I avoided collision with another car only by the "sixth sense" which seasoned motorists acquire, brought me back to reality, and I put my wounded feelings "on the table for future consideration," and gave undivided attention to my driving.

It was when I was well past the Triborough bridge, and skimming down the parkway, that I heard a familiar horn sound behind me, and in another second Dicky's car, with him at the wheel, shot past me, going at a pace far beyond the speed limit.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, May 15.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a rather difficult one to interpret, as there are symbols of intrigue, conspiracy and curious tendencies affecting the private life and its intimate associations and social activities. These might be turned into channels of the mystic, spiritual or the emotional creative expressions of poetry, music or art.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which much depends upon their own straightforwardness and acumen in untangling peculiar, intriguing and confusing circumstances.

A child born on this day may have a keen, alert and shrewd mentality, but may also have instincts to accomplish objectives or negotiate its difficulties by collusion, intrigue or subtlety.

* * *

For Monday, May 16.

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a day of difficult and very conflicting situations. Impetuosity, recklessness and indulgence may describe these dangerous disturbances, which also have their side issues of treachery, deceit and cunning.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which reckless, impulsive, passionate and irresponsible indulgences may defeat auspicious conditions for putting the fortunes and the position on a stable basis.

A child born on this day may have its studious, sane and serious moments, but innate tendencies for fun, self-indulgence, recklessness and irresponsibility may wean it from life's sounder objectives. It should receive rigid and early discipline and direction into constructive channels.

THEATER

TWO STORIES that have been famous in Hollywood history are being refilmed, both for the third time. One is "Graustark," which will be made with Merle Oberon as the queen and Gary Cooper as the American, which sounds like a good job of casting. The picture was never done satisfactorily before, despite the fact that two of the greatest love-teams in picture history made it; once with Beverly Bayne and Francis X. Bushman, and later with Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien. But they never caught the high romance and adventure of the McCutcheon novel. The second picture is Peter B. Kyne's "Valley of The Giants."

* * *

"College Swing."

If names count for anything, there should be high voltage comedy in "College Swing," which opened a three-day engagement today at the Madison, for there is the one and only Gracies Allen and her George Burns, Martha Ray who can do only one thing, but that one thing is a type of comedy no one else has; Ben Blue who needs no explanation; the Slate Brothers who appeared on the Madison stage more than a year ago with NTG's revue; and Bob Hope who established himself with one picture, "The Big Broadcast of 1938." The story is as simple as Gracie herself: In Puritan New England a wealthy old codger bequeaths a university he has founded to the first of his female descendants who passes a test at the school. Two centuries later Gracie does the trick and there you have Gracie in control of the school—which is something.

"Kentucky Moonshine."

There are hillbillies and hillbillies it seems and some grow in Brooklyn and some in them tnar hills. It's the latter kind that Tony Martin wants for his broadcast, but it's the former kind that he finds when he goes to the hills of Old Kaintuck. But of course Tony doesn't recognize the Ritz Brothers what with their beards and galluses, as who would? And he's quite taken in by the little mountain gal and her talent, unknowing that they both are Brooklyn products. Marjorie Weaver, a promising youngster in films, does the right thing however and all ends happily, including a near-massacre of the Ritz Brothers by the blood-thirsty Hatfield clan. The picture opens with a midnight matinee tonight at the Ohio.

* * *

"Port of Missing Girls."

Pretty Judith Allen, as a night club singer in a San Francisco spot, gets herself into a nice kettle of fish when she accidentally witnesses a murder, stows away on a ship sailing for China, and discovers that the owner is a woman hater. But that's only the beginning of "Port of Missing Girls" which is scheduled for the Majestic Sunday and Monday. Harry Carey and Milburn Stone appear in the picture with Miss Allen. An adventure picture with Jack Holt and Jacqueline Wells, "Flight Into Nowhere," is the second feature. It tells of a reckless air pilot stranded in the South American jungles, with two women, a beautiful white woman and a savage princess, fighting for him.

* * *

"Navy Blue and Gold."

Robert Young and James Stewart vie for the affections of Florence Rice in "Navy Blue and Gold," a love story of Annapolis and its cadets. Lionel Barrymore, Billie Burke, Tom Brown and Paul Kelly have important roles in this story of two midshipmen and a girl, which the Ritz offers for three days starting tomorrow. As a second attraction there is "Swing Your Lady," a laugh riot in which Elvirey and the Weaver Brothers make their screen debut. It's a novelty feature with a hillbilly background, in which Louise Fazenda stages a wrestling match with a city feller, and wins him for a life long partner. Penny Singleton sings and dances, and there is Humphrey Bogart, Frank McHugh and Allen Jenkins.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

FIVE-SUIT SAFETY

Safety plays are just as important in Five-Suit Bridge as in four-suit contract. They exist in one additional form—the correct use of the widow card. Another important principle of the old game—to adopt even an improbable course if it affords the only possible way to make your contract—also fits. It too may be extended to the placing of the widow card. In brief, you want to give yourself every possible chance to succeed, either through a safety play increasing your probabilities or through a desperate stab preserving your sole hope.

South started the action here with a diamond and after North bid an Eagle he tried 1-No Trump, although he had no heart stopper. North rebid Eagles at two, South rebid no trump at the same level and North raised to 3-No Trumps.

When the heart J was led, South regretted his optimism and saw that game would be out of the question unless he could bring in the dummy's Eagles. If he had put the widow Eagle deuce in the dummy to lengthen that suit, he would have been thrashed, unless the A fell on the first round. Instead he put it in his own hand, discarding the spade deuce.

With five Eagles in the opponents' hands, his fate depended on the A coming in on the second round. If the player holding it had three, he would surely hold it up twice and thus beat the contract. The odds were three to two that this would happen, but the short end developed. The man with only two spades had the A, so the contract was made—four Eagles, one heart, four diamonds, one club and one spade, the 11 tricks required for three-odd over the eight-trick book.

* * *

Monday's Problem.

(Dealer: East Neither side vulnerable.)

If West bids 1-Diamond on this deal, North doubles, South 1-No Trump, North 2-Clubs, South 2-Spades, North 2-No Trumps and South 3-No Trumps, what should West lead?

Sponge cakes are made light by the air that is beaten into the eggs used in making them. Beat the whites and yolks separately and fold in the beaten whites.
